WOOL WORKERS OF BRITAIN IN UNEASY STATE

Twelve Hundred Firms in Woolen Industry Prepare to Post Notice of Reductions

SOME EMPLOYEES OF FIRMS HAVE AGREED

By THOMAS T. CHAMBERLAIN
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, March 31.—Approximately 1,200 federated firms of the woolen industry were today expected to post notices of wage reductions, to be effective next week. Copies have already been handed to Mr. Arthur Shaw, secretary of the National Association of Textile Unions.

Accompanying the notices will be a statement from the owners of the reasons for the requested reductions. The step follows the report of the Macmillan Royal Commission, which recommended some wage reduction measure as a necessity in the re-organization of this great industry, which has been undergoing a period of severe depression.

At Luddenden, Yorkshire, the recommendations of the Royal Commission have already been instituted and a strike occurred there, but the operatives have since agreed to accept the reductions. The bulk of the Luddenden workers were not organized, but their action may have an important bearing on the wages trouble as a whole.

Prayers for a just and wise settlement of the dispute were offered yesterday in many churches of the Yorkshire West Riding.

The Ministry of Labour has not yet intervened in the matter.

B.C. TO HAVE AMPLE SPACE AT CONGRESS

A display of assorted bottled fruits in large art jars, now in the rounds of the Parliament Buildings, will form a most attractive setting surrounding the egg exhibit.
Pedestals with glass panels are to display British Columbia honey, for which an export market is being sought.

Provision has been made for exhibits of sea foods, also clam shell and abalone meal for poultry. These latter will form a crescent plane protected by a horsehoe railing made of British Columbia selected wood and surrounded by glass cases containing seeds of field and garden for which this province has gained an enviable reputation.

OIL PAINTINGS

To give an artistic finish to the whole display a series of oil paintings of British Columbia scenes is being prepared by Mr. G. H. South-well, to hang on the wood panels.

Assisting the Provincial Department of Agriculture in arranging such an attractive exhibit, Mr. Albert Thompson, of the drafting office of the forest branch, has designed the wall displays and prepared the plans and specifications for carrying out the work.

Up to the present eighty nations have promised to send exhibits to the congress.

IRISH HEAD IS CERTAIN TO GO BACK

would injure his chances at the next election. This idea has been attractive enough to merit the condemnation of Vice-President Ernest Blythe, who declares that De Valera could do more harm in three months as president than could be repaired in three years. Furthermore, Mr. Blythe says there is a danger of the resurrection of the "gun bullies," whom De Valera could not control.

The Labor party has nominated its own leader, T. J. O'Connell, who is an instructor in the National School, against De Valera, though it has only thirteen of the Dail's membership of 153 and though fusion with the Republicans is impracticable.

Mr. Cosgrave's re-election is now regarded as a certainty.

Until the general election recon-structs the Dail, no change in Irish policy is likely. The recent parliamentary defeat was not caused by a shifting of opinion in the Dail, but by a slack attendance, several of the deputies having risked absence to enjoy rival attractions, including the Grand National steeplechase at Liverpool.

Saskatchewan Claims Sum Of Three Hundred and Six Millions for Lost Domain

from whatever decision is rendered, to the judicial committee of the Imperial Privy Council.

The legality of the Saskatchewan
Act of 1906, whereby the Province of Saskatchewan was created out of the Northwest Territories, is also questioned. The Provincial Government claims that in the return of its natural resources the province should be placed "in the same position in which it would have been had it come into Confederation in 1870, vested with the ownership and control of its natural resources to the same extent and with the same safeguards and limitations as have always prevailed in the case of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in 1867."

BELONG TO PEOPLE

In advancing this contention, Premier Anderson reviews Canadian history at some length, dwelling upon the acquisition of Rupertland. He claims that in the purchase of this territory from the Hudson's Bay Company all the company's rights were "extinguished" and "transferred" to the Confederation.

In general it is sought to establish that the natural resources had, from 1870, always belonged to the people of Saskatchewan, and that the Dominion simply held them in trust for those residents.

Premier Anderson charges that since 1870 up to January, 1927, a total of 61,236,932 acres of land yet alienated "without authority or consent of the Government and people of Saskatchewan." Placing an average value of $5 an acre, he finds that the value so alienated was $306,634,660.

The Dominion Government is not prepared to admit that "the position of Saskatchewan should be treated as having been the subject of general misconception for half a century."

CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

The whole correspondence treats of the approach to and the consummation of the final agreement between the provincial and Federal authorities and also covers the various suggestions advanced and conferences engaged in. In most of his communications to Premier Anderson, Mr. Mackenzie King emphasized the desire of the Federal Government to treat with Saskatchewan on the same basis as the agreement made with Alberta.

Finally the convention was harmoniously arranged by conferences suggested by both Mr. Mackenzie King and Dr. Anderson, and the agreement signed several days ago.

There remained only the constitutional aspect of the matter, the legality of the Saskatchewan Act.
While it is not so stated, the interchange indicates that this is one of the questions which the Supreme Court of Canada will eventually have to deal with.

Dr. Eckener Given Chase By Big Bull

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Dr.
Hugo Eckener, of Graf Zeppelin fame, was chased by a bull on a Virginia farm today, but only the bull knew it until the Zeppelin pilot was safely out of reach.

Dr. Eckener, accompanied by his son, Hugo, and officials of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, was inspecting a tract of land in Hungry, near Alexandria, as a prospective site for the American transatlantic dixie line.

The noted flyer led the way through a barbed wire fence to a knoll overlooking a pasture. Just as they were safely on the other side, the bull, red and angry, charged down the knoll, bellowing.
He stopped only when he struck the fence and stood entangled in the wire, pawing and kicking.

Dr. Eckener looked up in surprise.
"Hello," he said amiably, and led the party onward.

Jefferson City Convicts Again At Usual Work

(Associated Press)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 31.—Approximately 1,500 prisoners in the Missouri penitentiary returned to work in the shops this morning for the first time since the mutiny and strikes of last Wednesday and Thursday. The men had breakfast at 6:30 o'clock and then went quietly to their posts in the factories.

There was no disorder and the men apparently fell back into their routine willingly. An augmented force of prison guards and National Guardmen stood by as the factories opened.

The broom, twine and shoe factories remained closed because of surplus of manufactured products on hand.

Before the strike last week the prison work shops showed a total of several hundred were employed in the three shops that remained closed today.

SEEK TO MAKE ESQUIMALT RD. ARTERIAL WAY

Council Decides to Apply for Classification of Admirals and Esquimalt Roads as Highways

DEPUTATION HEARD TO SUPPORT PLAN

"That a committee of three be appointed from this council to work in conjunction with the Esquimalt Board of Trade to wait upon Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, member for the district, in regard to the proposition of making Esquimalt and Admirals Roads an arterial highway."

Above is the motion which passed unanimously at the Esquimalt Council last night, following speeches from three members of the Esquimalt Board of Trade regarding the idea of making Esquimalt a main thoroughfare of the district primary or arterial highways. A letter was also read from the Board of Trade telling of the plans they had adopted at their recent meeting.

Another letter was also received from the Victoria West Brotherhood trying to get assistance from the council for making Craigflower Road
the first leg of the Vancouver Island Highway, instead of Gorge Road,
the present route.

After a lengthy discussion, Councillors Alexander Lockley and W. J.
Cox and Reeve Erick were chosen as a committee from the council.
The Board of Trade will select their delegates at their next meeting.

FAVOR ACTION

Major A. Mulcahy, first speaker for the deputation from the Board of Trade, said that he was one of the committee chosen at a recent meeting which adopted a motion to wait on the council and see if something could be done to make Esquimalt and Admirals Roads primary highways. "If committees from the Board of Trade and the council would get together and wait on the Attorney-General on the project something could be done that would be a great advantage to Esquimalt," he said.

Major J. A. P. Compton and Mr.
Arthur Young, the other members,
both voiced similar opinions.
"I have discussed the matter with Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Public Works. It is entirely a matter for the Government in making these roads arterial highways. I think if the Board of Trade and the Victoria West Brotherhood cooperate something might be done by the Government," stated Reeve Erick.

Councillor Cox then moved that a committee be appointed from the council to work in conjunction with the Board of Trade and interview the Attorney-General on the matter. He further stated that it would be a good plan to interview the Government as soon as possible, before the summer session was taken.

Reeve Erick said that he was sure that the Victoria West Brotherhood would work in conjunction with the Board of Trade and the council, although they had already advocated Craigflower Road. The Victoria branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia would also assist the highway project.

WANT QUICK ACTION

"Quick action," was the quick response.
If Esquimalt Road were taken from the municipality there might be a reduction in taxes, and I am sure if Mr. Pooley were approached he could do a whole lot for the people by getting quick action," concluded Major Mulcahy.

Councillor Cox's motion was duly seconded and adopted.

versations may bridge the gulf, but hood of the opposing viewpoints be-

TO PREVENT FAILURE

Advice received here from Tokyo today lent color to the hope that a three-power treaty, which would save the London negotiations from complete failure, Japan's reply to proposals put forward by the British and Americans has not yet been received, it is indicated that the answer will be favorable to the idea.
Japan, it is said, makes concessions to the demand for 70 per cent of the American strength in large cruisers, yielding on this point for the purpose of securing a five-year working agreement of construction programme rather than surrendering the principal of ratio which her naval experts are convinced is necessary to secure national security.

Friday's plenary session is expected to mark the trend toward speedy adjournment or continuance along the present painstaking lines of study of European problems.

INSTITUTIONS DESCRIBED TO BUSINESS MEN

Hon. S. L. Howe Is Speaker at Annual Meeting of Local Branch of Canadian Association

MR. W. A. JAMESON IS ELECTED CHAIRMAN

Public Institutions in British Columbia and the need of spending large sums of money on their maintenance formed the subject of an interesting address given yesterday by Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, at the annual luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Among the guests present were Mayor Anscombe, Mr. B. Fowler and Mr. B. A. McKelvie.

Mr. W. A. Jameson, of the Jameson Coffee Company, who is the senior member of the association in Victoria, was elected chairman for the ensuing year. Mr. W. A. Jameson, of the Baker Brick Company, was elected vice-president, while those chosen to form the executive were Mr. A. E. Filmer, of Nanaimo Printers and Stationers, Limited; Mr. Edward Tomlin, of the B.C. Cement Company, Limited; and Mr. W. B. Wilson, of B. Wilson Company, Limited. The section chairman elected for the metal trade section was Mr. E. W. Izard, while the chairman of the printers' section has yet to be chosen. Representatives to the British Columbia division of the association will be Mr. R. W. Mayhew, Mr. H. J. Pendray and Mr. N. A. Yarrow.

PRODUCTIVE WORK

Wherever possible, said Mr. Howe in discussing mental homes and places of correction in this province, any form of production by the inmates was strenuously encouraged. In the Industrial Home for Boys for instance, these lads who had got themselves into trouble were turning out $18,000 worth of produce in a year. The younger ones were put to school, and everything possible was done to fit them to become useful and decent citizens on their release.

Mr. Howe spoke enthusiastically of the tubercular sanitarium known as Tranquille, which is situated in Kamloops, and where many T.B. cases, which would have been pronounced hopeless a few years ago are now cured so completely that the patients are able to continue their ordinary occupations. Last year a new infirmary building, containing 100 beds, had been finished at Tranquille, and everything possible was done to alleviate the lot of the patients.

A feature of this institution was that, instead of having radio loud-speakers in the wards, which might disturb these patients who were very ill, earphones had been provided for every bed, in order that the patients might listen in privacy to the music they liked. Concerts and motion picture entertainments were also arranged. In connection with Tranquille, also, there was a farm of several thousand acres, upon which it was hoped to develop range cattle. "I am convinced," said Mr. Howe, "that the most sensible way to regard an institution of this kind is as a purely business project."

HOME AT ESSONDALE

Speaking of the mental hospital at Essondale, Mr. Howe said that this had been founded in the year 1913 by Dr. Esson Young, and no less than $3,143,000 had been spent upon this institution. At present the Female Chronic Building was in course of completion.

Mr. Howe was emphatic in stating that such cases as those arising from shell-shock during the war should be segregated, and that a psychiatric hospital, where mild and doubtful cases of insanity could be kept under observation, should be established. "We have arrived at the time when these should be built," he said, "and thus we shall not only be helping the individual, but also the taxpayer."

Speaking of children mentally afflicted, Mr. Howe said that it was a recognized fact that an open-air existence, surrounded by animal life, was best for mental cases. "It is inhuman to keep a mentally deficient child locked up for the balance of its existence," the speaker stated. "Essondale, he continued, cost the province the sum of $728,327 last year. In conjunction with it was a colony farm, which ran one of the finest herds of Holstein cows in America.

There were sixty-eight hospitals in British Columbia, said the speaker in conclusion, and the maintenance of these last year came to $3,779,000. It was, therefore, impossible to maintain the "crisis department" of the province, which looked after mental, moral and physical ailments without appropriating

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrhal deafness or are hard of hearing, or have head noises, so to your druggist and ask for Earsol (double strength), and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, easy little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. (Adv.)

COURT HEARS EVIDENCE ON WALLIS CHARGE

Witnesses Say Emerson Admitted Signing Agreement for Purchase of Hummobile Not in Existence

HEAD OF COMPANY CONFESSES GUILT

After evidence had been given at preliminary hearing in the city police court yesterday, Stanley E. Wallis and Arthur Emerson were committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate George Jay.

Wallis was also committed for trial in a higher court on two charges of forgery. On these charges being presented, City Prosecutor C. L. Harrison announced that the Attorney-General had directed that election for summary trial should not be accepted. Mr. Stuart Henderson, counsel for Wallis, said that on behalf of his client he asked for summary trial, and questioned the legal power of the Attorney-General to have the case reserved for trial at a higher court. Mr. Harrison cited the Criminal Code as explicitly conferring such authority.

Preliminary hearing on these charges then proceeded and evidence was heard. At its conclusion, in each case, Wallis said that he was guilty, and was committed for trial.

THE EVIDENCE

The charge first dealt with was that against Wallis and Emerson of conspiracy to defraud. Mr. Arthur C. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of Douglas MacKay, Limited, being the first witness called. He identified a conditional sales agreement for the sale of a Hummobile sedan car, numbered 160,110 and bearing the serial number 157,982. Emerson had signed the agreement as purchaser of the car, and had also signed an endorsement on the back, stating where he would store it. The document set forth that Emerson had paid $1,000 cash on the car, and it included an agreement on his part to pay $1,295 in monthly instalments. These instalments had been assigned by the Consolidated Motors (Victoria) Limited, to Douglas MacKay Company, and $1,295 had for this consideration been obtained from the latter company.

CAR NONEXISTENT

Mr. John William MacDougall, managing director of General Securities, Limited, Vancouver, testified that on March 21, at the office of the Consolidated Motors (Victoria), he had placed the agreement of sale before Emerson, had asked the following questions and had received the following answers:

"Is that your signature?"
"Yes."
"Did you purchase this car?"
"No."

"Does any car with these numbers exist?"
"Not that I know of."
"This is not a bona fide sale, then?"
"No."
"Why did you do it?"
"I don't know. Just to help out, I guess. Well, I suppose I will have to pay for it."
Wallis was present when these answers were given, witness said, and had made no reply to them. Mr. G. E. Housser had also been present.

SEPARATE COMPANIES

Mr. Benjamin Good, accountant of the Consolidated Motors Company, Vancouver, testified that this company and the Consolidated Motors (Victoria) were independent companies, the resemblance in name having no significance. One was not a branch of the other. The name of the Victoria company differed from that of the Vancouver company in having the word "Victoria" in brackets as part of its title. The two companies did business with each other as any other two independent companies might.

The Vancouver company were sole distributors for British Columbia for the Hummobile car. No motor car with the numbers given on the conditional sales agreement signed by Emerson had passed through the hands of the Vancouver company. Mr. G. E. Housser, solicitor for General Securities, Limited, corroborated the evidence given by Mr. MacDougall with respect to the questions put by the latter to Emerson in the presence of Wallis, and the answers given by Emerson.

This completed the evidence for the prosecution. None was offered for the defence. Magistrate Jay then committed the accused for trial.

Two charges of forgery were then presented against Wallis, and City Prosecutor Harrison having transmitted the direction of the Attorney-General, excluding summary trial, the preliminary hearings proceeded.

The first charge related to two conditional sales agreements, purporting to have been signed by Joseph A. Robinson as purchaser; one dated March 19, 1928, and the other March 18, 1929. According to the evidence by Mr. A. C. Pitts, $1,250 had been obtained on the former and $1,200 on the latter.

Mr. J. W. MacDougall, called again to the witness box, testified that on March 21, in the office of the Douglas MacKay Company he had pointed out to Wallis that the signatures on these two documents were not alike and asked if they were forgeries. Wallis had replied that they were, and that he had written them and that he did not know of the existence of anyone named Joseph A. Robinson. These statements, witness said, had been made in the presence of Mr. Housser and Mr. Pitts.

Corroborative evidence was given by Mr. Pitts.

"I AM GUILTY"

When asked if he wished to say anything before committing and warned that anything he did say might be used against him on his trial, Wallis said, "I am guilty of this charge." He was then committed for trial.

The second charge of forgery was in connection with a conditional sale of agreement purporting to be signed by W. G. Cairnes as purchaser of a truck at a price of $4,340. Similar evidence was given; the accused again said that he was guilty and was committed for trial on this count also.

PATHFINDER TOUR TO PLAN FOR CARAVAN

B.C. Representatives Will Go Over Route This Month, Prior to Auto Itinerary in June

CONFERENCE IS HELD IN SEATTLE

Mr. Bruce A. McKelvie, who will direct the proposed automobile caravan in June from Vancouver to Hazelton over the first section of the projected extension of the Pacific Highway over the Cariboo Road from Vancouver to Fairbanks, Alaska, with his assistant, Major Gordon Smith, will start over the route, 832 miles, from Vancouver to Hazelton on April 14 to designate the stopping places and to make necessary arrangements to entertain the visitors on the summer expedition. The caravan will assemble at Vancouver and leave that city on the morning of June 14. It will be at Hazelton on June 21, the longest day of the year, when there will be approximately twenty hours of daylight.

It is likely that the Governor of Alaska and representatives of the Chambers of Commerce of the leading cities of Alaska; Premier S. P. Tomin and members of the British Columbia Cabinet; Governor Roland H. Hartley, of Washington, and the Governors of Oregon and California or their representatives will assemble at Hazelton to greet the caravan on its arrival there and hold a conference. The schedule calls for the return of the caravan party back in Vancouver on June 30.

Preparations for the caravan were carried forward at a conference over the week-end in Seattle between Mr. B. A. McKelvie, director of publicity and information for the Province of British Columbia, and Mr. W. F. Kennedy, M.P.P. for North Okanagan and senior Government whip in the Provincial Legislature, representatives of Dr. Tomin, with Mr. Asahel Curtis and Mr. Charles D. Garfield, of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Curtis and Mr. Garfield have charge of arrangements for the American members of the party on the trip, which will be headed by Major Malcolm Elliott, president of the Alaska Road Commission. Twenty-five members of the caravan will be American newspaper men selected from West Coast states by Messrs. Curtis and Garfield.

THIEVES ENTER NANAIMO HOME

MR. MURRAY PLANTA'S RESIDENCE IS THOROUGHLY RANSACKED

Owner Finds Goods Scattered Over House With Many Valuables Missing

NANAIMO, March 31.—Some time between 2 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. yesterday, burglars entered the residence of Mr. Murray A. E. Planta, Newcastle Township, and took a large quantity of effects. Entry was made through the basement by boring large holes through the doors and operating the locks and bolts therefrom. The burglars made a thorough ransack, turning out the contents of the buffet and cabinet drawers and scattering them about each room. Among the many articles removed were binoculars, two cameras, barometer, radio tubes, electric pickup, mounted chime clock, cut glass bowl and dish, silver tea service, revolver, rifle, pack sack, electric coffee urn and pearl and diamond chip stickpin. The visitors must have had a sense of humor, because a mannequin, which Mrs. Planta had stored away in an unused upstairs room, was brought downstairs and dressed with Mr. Planta's army tunic and his army cap placed on the top. This was then stood up in the doorway of a small hall. Mr. Planta, after being away all day from 2 o'clock in the afternoon, went to the house about 10:15 p.m. and on entering the living-room found contents of buffet drawers strewn around. Mr. Planta carries residence burglary insurance, so that he will be reimbursed to the extent of the depreciated value of articles removed; but the loss will be substantial. The thoroughness of the ransack would indicate that the thieves were looking for something in particular, but what it might be Mr. Planta is at a loss to state.

The regular monthly meeting and adjourned annual meeting of the British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. this evening.

Important—Before You Build or Remodel

MANY important economies can be effected in building or remodeling, which not only save money—but which actually improve construction and add to value. For instance, modern interior decoration ideas demand delicate-tinted panelled interiors. Beaver Board creates these effects as artistically and permanently as any other method, but at much lower cost. Again, the insulated home, more comfortable to live in, demands a higher price. Beaver Insulating Board gives the best known protection against extremes of heat or cold. It is decidedly worthwhile to investigate the many advantages of these time-tested building materials. Ask your carpenter for an estimate.

Beaver Board
Four-ply laminated board, surfaced to eliminate a priming coat when finishing. Doesn't buckle, for the Beaver "Sealite" process prevents absorption of moisture. Look for the red Beaver trademark.

Beaver Insulating Board
Insulate floors, walls and roof with Beaver Insulating Board. Savings in fuel and repairs more than balance the first cost. Five-ply laminated construction keeps each board permanently flat.

Beaver Bestwall
For walls and ceilings that will give a lifetime of satisfaction apply Beaver Bestwall—the superior plaster wall board. Fireproof, vermin-proof, permanent, easily decorated.

CARROTS and cheese sauce—Choose good red carrots, wash, peel and cook in boiling salted water till tender. Drain and cut into neat lengths. Cut as many oblong pieces of bread as you have carrots, toast, and butter them, and place a piece of carrot on each. Then make a thick white sauce, and when it boils stir in three or four ounces of grated cheese. Season to taste, a little Cayenne is usually added; cook for a few minutes to thoroughly blend the cheese with the sauce, pour carefully over each carrot-toast, and serve very hot.

Handles Are Hooked

HOOK handles have risen to a point of fashion in Spring umbrellas, although not to the exclusion of other styles. But there are hooks galore, large ones, half hooks, both of wood and of composition. Birdie loops, the opera angle, dog heads and straight lines are seen, yet many handles are slightly bent as a compromise between the crook and the stick type.

A small and convenient, yet attractive, half hook of wood is used to handle the striped umbrella at the left, fashioned from a silk in a wide border pattern.

Fancy fabrics are emphasized in new models, including the ubiquitous

Christening Party
The christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Parry took place on Friday evening at St. Mark's Church. The child received the names of John Edward and the sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. E. Callaghan and Mr. F. Beckwith. After the ceremony a happy time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beckwith, Hampton Road. The evening was spent in games, music and dancing. Mrs. Callaghan sang several solos and Mr. G. Parker played the saxophone. Later a dainty supper was served and Mrs. Parry cut the christening cake, which was a tier of her own wedding cake. Mrs. Beckwith and Mrs. Woodrow served ices. The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan, Mr. and Mrs. W. Pinnigton, Mr. and Mrs. G. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Lock, Mr. and Mrs. Crossley, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Woodrow, Miss D. Pinnigton, Miss M. Young, Mr. Fred Woodrow, Messrs. Harold and Thomas Beckwith and Miss A. Parker.

Party for Brides-to-Be
A delightful party was held on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hollins, 938 St. Patrick Street, Oak Bay, in honor of two brides-to-be, Miss Verlie Johnson and Miss Marjorie Oliver, both members of the Oak Bay United Church choir. During the evening each was presented with a farewell gift. Refreshments were served from a table prettily arranged in a color scheme of mauve and yellow. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Curless, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ruffell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. F. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. T. Oliver, Mrs. E. Glen, Mrs. L. Sinclair, Mrs. N. Buckle, Mrs. Clarke, Misses Jean Ormiston, Viola Johnson, George Tapley, M. Brynjolfson and Estelle Clark, and Messrs. G. Burnell and Hubert Irving.

Birthday Party
Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Thomas entertained at their home, 822 Dunsmuir Street, on March 29 in honor of their daughter, Agnes. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bridgehouse, Mr. W. E. How Milady Will Dress Her Hair This Season

When sixty mannequins parade at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on the occasion of the hairdressers' convention, they will appear in coiffures similar to those appearing here. Curly hair will have a more prominent place, in view of the fashionists this year, but hair will remain short, according to the hairdressers. Indeed at the state show this week but one of the sixty mannequins will appear with long tresses. When a style comes into being it can always be beautified and modified to suit fashions in clothes, say the experts, who contend that short hair will prevail, in spite of the return to long dresses and frocks. But the boyish bob is truly gone, they say.

Strange, that a man who will spend some thousands of dollars for an automobile, in which he spends a few hours a day, will hesitate a long time before purchasing, for a small fraction of that sum, a bed upon which a third of his life is passed. Too many people endure rest torture by compromising with comfort for the sake of a few dollars. More sleep per hour! If the springs are unyielding and the mattress lumpy, we turn and toss often for hours before falling into troubled sleep.

Fashion Fancies
By Marie Belmont

Getting close to Nature is the Spring move that silks are making. The flora and fauna of many climes are the inspiration of the patterns which are stamping both heavy crepes and diaphanous silks as popular fabrics. While one designer shows enthusiasm for a garden of roses, another may prefer a bouquet of old-fashioned flowers or a riot of blooms of the field variety, or again they may be of exotic origin. Fern fronds and oak leaves form a favorite motif, and one designer, evincing a more practical turn of mind, has brought out some delectable chiffon patterned in various kinds of vegetables.

The frock shown here today illustrates how charmingly a floral printed chiffon may be used to define the feeling of Paris for the afternoon dress. Here pastel shaded flowers are blooming on a black ground. The short shoulder capelet, the long flounced sleeves and wide flounce at the bottom of the slim skirt are all characteristic of the mode of Spring, 1930.

The Romantic Prince

By RAFAEL SABATINI

(Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance and Metropolitan Newspaper Service.)

Count Anthony stared and stared, not believing his eyes, imagining that he was the victim of a delusion thrust upon him by the oppression of his desire.

Johanna was in blue, he noted, that same Madonna color which she had worn when first he had beheld her, but this was of velvet and infinitely richer, as was all her raiment. She was the same and yet not quite the same as he had last seen her—three months ago. In the past her attire, like her speech and manner, had ever been such as would become a noble maid in the retirement of her own home. Now she was arrayed like a lady of the court both in the richness of material and modishness of design.

Yet it was she, and the courtliness of her raiment was after all no more than was used by the ladies of those opulent burghers when they came to court, no more than to be observed on many another in that considerable assembly.

With conviction that it was really Johanna and that he was not dreaming, a scarlet flame crept across his face, to leave it paler than it had been, so pale that his great dark eyes seemed to glow and burn. For a moment breath almost failed him, his brow was moist, and all the training in deportment and self-command deserted him. He felt foolish and awkward as any clown, and knew not what to do or how to bear himself.

And then he became suddenly conscious of another familiar face; a florid countenance with a great nose and a pair of hazel eyes. It belonged to Philip Danvelt; and there was the stocky burgher with his head thrown back on his short thick neck, grinning broadly at him in greeting, with a lift of the hand towards him, to let others see on what terms of familiarity he stood with gentleman who was the first among the Duke's intimates.

That recalled Count Anthony to himself. He smiled his acknowledgment of that fulsome greeting, and bowed low to Johanna. A moment later and Rhysaull was presenting her to the Duke. Another moment and she passed on and was merged with Danvelt into the body of the crowd. But the Count's eyes followed her as she moved hither and thither in the shifting throng. Actually he had moved a step to go after before he remembered that respect for the Duke and his duty kept him rooted where he stood.

Not until some hours later, after the great state banquet which ensued almost interminably and when the grandees were lighted and the dance was in progress, was opportunity afforded him to approach her. It was during the first dance, when the Duke, to set the example, had led forth the wife of van Koenec, the Burgomaster of Middleburg, and had been followed by all his courtiers and most of the burghers present, that Count Anthony espied her seated alone near one of the tall mullioned windows at the hall's end.

He reached her side a moment after courtly elegant Messire de Rubempre of the Duke's following. She was in the act of declining with excuses the courtier's invitation to the dance when suddenly Count Anthony surged beside him. Messire de Rubempre bowed low and retired without observing the deadly pallor overspreading the face which had attracted that fastidious courtier, or the tumult of that white bosom which he had so much admired.

With lowered eyes and fingers locked about the handle of her fan of peacock's feathers she sat with the least suggestion of crouching in her attitude while Count Anthony leaned over her.

"Johanna!" he murmured, but received no answer. He read of her in her attitude, in her averted eyes and in her obvious agitation. She was in the right to be offended with him, and her sudden discovery of his true identity would hardly mitigate her feelings. But all would be well once he explained, once he told her that this sight of her had scattered his last doubt, his last hesitation, that his dukedom might go hang unless it would accept her for its duchess.

What lady in all the land, in all the world, he asked himself, could rival him for beauty, for dignity, for graciousness, for purity and worth? Hers was a nobility deeper than any nobility of birth and blood. It was a nobility directly bestowed upon her by her Maker, as sometimes happened.

"We must talk, Johanna. I have so much to say to you." One upward glance of her eyes she vouchsafed him, to lower them instantly again. But not before he had read scorn and pain in them. Her lips curled a little in sheer bitterness. Her voice came steady and cold, and her words reached him above the sounds of the music and the shuffle and stamp of the dancers' feet.

"What can a Prince of Oueders have to say to a burgher woman?" His voice was almost hoarse as he answered her: "That which will make the burgher woman a princess or else the prince a burgher."

Again she looked up at him, and if there was still pain in her eyes, and still some scorn, it was now the scorn of unbelief; but more than either was there sheer amazement.

"You go to odd lengths, my lord, in pursuit of your amusements."

"Amusement! Am I amused? Look in my eyes, Johanna. Read my face. Do you see amusement there?"

She marked his pallor, the dark rings under his eyes, which added to their feverish lustre, and something indefinable in their glance which allured and terrified and enveloped her will.

"You are mad," she said faintly, seeking to resist the spell of his gaze. "Mad."

"I have been. Mad with yearning ever since the day the Governor's officer carried me away from Flushing. Mad with doubts and distractions and balancings. But the sight of you has made me sane again."

"The Governor's officer carried you away?" she echoed. "It was all that she had heard, and it confirmed her first assumption. 'Against your will, do you mean?' 'A prisoner virtually, by an excess of zeal on the part of the Governor here. He would not allow me to communicate with you, not even a letter could I send until he had made safe delivery of me some weeks later to the Duke. Then . . ."

"Well, sir? Then?" She was almost stern, and seemed oddly composed; no burgher's housewife speaking to a prince, but just a woman to a man.

"Then I wondered if silence were not best." He hung his head. He spoke almost in shame. "I wondered if it were not best to leave things where they stood, to vanish without explanation. There was my cursed station, a duty to the Duke which demanded instant labors of me, and a duty to the duchy which I was born one day to rule, as was pointed out to me in the very hour of my deliverance from the Governor's men."

"Between my love of you and all that my birth imposed upon me. I have been so torn ever since that day. But I am torn no longer. The struggle is at an end, and never could have ended otherwise than this. Sooner or later I must have been as I am now: at your feet, a very humble suppliant."

Something within her seemed to snap. There was in all this a cruel irony he could not guess. Limpidly she sank back in her chair, and for an instant her head with its stiff headress lolled sideways on her shoulder.

"Johanna! You are ill!" She steadied herself, answering mechanically. "The heat. It stifles me."

They were within two paces of a door leading to the open. He proffered his wrist. "It is a step to the garden. The air there will revive you. Come."

Obediently she set her hand upon his wrist and permitted him to conduct her from the hall. They went unheeded by all but one, and this person of little consequence to either of them: Kuoni von Stocken, the Governor's hump-backed fool.

In presenting Mistress Johanna that day to the Duke, the Sir de Rhysaull had remarked her closely, and afterwards had desired his fool to inform himself concerning her. The fool, who served his master in many capacities, considered it a part of his task to observe the lady's deportment at this ball, for the sake of the inference he might draw from it. Therefore he hovered near. Deeply intrigued, he advanced to put himself in the way of those two as they approached the open door. He fell back, however, without uttering the quip he had prepared. The lady's deep pallor, her faltering step, and Count Anthony's grave, preoccupied air, left the fool stricken with amazement; and profoundly curious, starting after them as they passed out.

TO GIVE TRIAL TO SCHEDULE AS REVISED

Mr. Goward Submits Suggestions for Improved Service in Esquimalt to District Council

BUS RESOLUTION WAS REJECTED

"I move that the letter be received and filed, and that Mr. Goward be asked to start the new service as specified in his letter as soon as possible," stated Councillor Charles H. Smith, following the reading of a letter from Mr. A. T. Goward, vice-president of the British Columbia Electric Company, Ltd., at last night's meeting of the Esquimalt Council, regarding the next move to improve transportation in the district. Mr. Goward's letter was a reply to the members of the council, following a meeting held in his office.

Councillor Smith's motion was promptly seconded by Councillor Albert Head, who stated that he thought the vice-president's answer was a fair one, and that due consideration should be given to the company.

REEVE'S REMARKS
Reeve James Erick said that the B.C. Electric had made some move to better the situation which has been under fire in the municipality for a considerable length of time, in the way of fixing the tracks, cleaner street cars and a speedier service.

"I can assure you that the Government will never make Esquimalt Road an arterial highway as long as the tracks remain where they are, and also the condition of the thoroughfare as it is today. If the street car tracks were in the centre of the road, then traffic could operate on both sides of them, and the situation might be different," the reeve stated.

When put to a vote the motion passed unanimously.

TUE BUS RESOLUTION
Councillor W. J. Cox's resolution, which was tabled at the last meeting, ing, was then brought up for discussion. The resolution asked to invite the Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Veterans Sightseeing Company, and the B.C. Electric, to tender data regarding the cost of operating buses through the district. It also required information on transfers, fares and schedules.

The resolution was seconded by Councillor A. T. Farley. In speaking on the resolution, Councillor Cox said something had to be done regarding the transportation problem in the district. "I think that we have had evidence here tonight by a request from the Esquimalt Board of Trade about working in conjunction with them and interviewing Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, member for the district, about making Esquimalt Road an arterial highway," Councillor Cox said.

"I further think this matter has something to do with the transportation problem. The question has come up several times whether the people of the district want bus transportation or not, and therefore the council not accepting this resolution," he concluded.

Councillor Head stated that he was in favor of giving the B.C. Electric a trial on the new plan, and then the people could see for themselves how things work out. When put to a vote, Councillors Cox and Farley were in favor, while Councillors Head, Smith and Lockley were against it.

MR. GOWARD'S LETTER

"Mr. Tripp, our general superintendent, and myself had the pleasure of meeting the reeve and council last Monday, when the whole matter of transportation in the Municipality of Esquimalt was fully discussed.

"At this meeting we pointed out the difficulties under which our company was operating, owing, very largely, to the fact that the transportation department was being operated at a loss. The members of the committee, however, pressed us very hard to endeavor to improve the service and operating conditions. "The whole matter has now been given most careful consideration, and I am pleased to write as follows:

CONDITION OF CARS
"As explained at the meeting, the rolling stock used on the Esquimalt line is identical with the rolling stock in service on all other lines, but, owing to circumstances over which we have no control and of which, I am sure, your committee are fully aware, it is next to impossible at all times to keep the cars clean. We will, however, do our utmost to fit for the summer season in the way of co-operation from your council, in the way of interest-viewing the authorities, will be gladly welcomed.

TRACKS AND SERVICE

"A very considerable amount of money is now being spent in track and improvement to the benefit of the municipality, and I trust this is meeting with the approval of the council.

"As pointed out at the meeting, it is desperately hard to justify an increase in service anywhere, when the service now being given is not paying proper operating charges. "The members of the committee will, also, remember the loading charts, which we exhibited at the meeting and which conclusively showed the lack of travel during a very great portion of the day, particularly in the early morning and late at night.

"However, we are very anxious to meet the wishes of the council and, therefore, propose to put in a schedule, which will give a twelve-minute service for practically the whole of the day, the schedule being as follows: 6 a.m. to 8 a.m., fifteen-minute headway; 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m., a twelve-minute headway; 11:00 p.m. till midnight a fifteen-minute headway.

"Trusting that the above will meet with the approval of the reeve and council, and assuring you of our wish to co-operate at all times."

THRILLING PLAY SEEN AT ROYAL

Gordon McLeod Plays Turn Once Again in Crime in His Creepiest Form

In the London performances of Grand Guignol nowadays they have a hospital nurse in full uniform, ostentatiously parading the foyer of the theatre, ready to administer first aid to those members of the audience who faint away, overcome by the thrills which they have paid their money to see.

The first victim, for instance, never appears as anything but an arm, seen round the corner of an archway, and the nonfatalities are nothing more than cases of semi-strangulation, which again become fit for a suspension, and the very few seconds of gasping incoherence.

AMUSING DIALOGUE

Percy Robinson and Terrence de Marney have worked a number of interesting and unusual features into the plot, together with plenty of distinctly humorous dialogue, so that the play does not rely entirely upon screams in the dark and the sudden appearance of terrifying hands.

Patrons of the Royal this week should make an effort to be in their places by the rise of the curtain as the first minute of the play is taken up by a very intense and difficult piece of business by Mr. McLeod, who makes the very most of a thoroughly bizarre part. Miss Lilian Christine had some of the wildest lines of the play, and was excellent as the sarcastic wife of a henpecked husband. Miss Anne Farrer did not have a great deal to do, and one could have wished that the authors had written a few more lines for her, particularly in the first act. Miss Peggie Burnand surpassed herself last night. She had a different part and played it with subtlety and unselfishness. Mr. Harcourt Aubrey also made the most of the rather thin part of Tom Arnot.

GILLET-BAILEY

There is no doubt, however, that Mr. Roland Gillet and Mr. Claude Bailey shared last night's honors, the former as the perfect type of "silly ass," the latter in a splendid piece of character work as a colored manservant from this side of the Atlantic. Both of them had got right into the skins of their parts, and neither of them missed a single opportunity of getting a laugh.

Mr. Ernest Bodkin was quietly convincing as Sir Hugh Elliot, and Mr. James McGrath, saddled with a rather thankless and unsympathetic part, worked hard and made the very most of it.

Mr. George Durham, a local actor who has recently joined the company, made a really fine study of the pathetic figure of the hump-backed butler. As a young man in the prologue, and as an old man during the rest of the play, he was excellent throughout. Mr. C. Ridge, who made his first appearance with the McLeod Players last night, was on the stage for very long, but played the role of Robert Condell successfully.

PLEBISCITE ON BEER PROPOSED

A movement to get another plebiscite on the sale of beer by the glass in Victoria, has been launched. Captain Hayard Martin, a retired army officer, residing here, stated last night that pamphlets were being printed which would circulate the arguments of the Victoria beer-by-the-glass advocates, and will be distributed within a few days.

Which will be followed by petitions to which it is aimed to secure enough figures to call for another vote on the question.

A number of business men and citizens, he said, were discussing the formation of an association, to be known as the Moderation and Equity League, which will carry on a campaign for another vote on the sale of beer by the glass, and the adoption of such a system.

Under the Liquor Act the circulation of the petitions is necessary as a preliminary to a plebiscite, and a sufficient but unspecified number of names must be secured to make it a reasonable assumption that enough people are interested to warrant the expense of a plebiscite being taken. The vote may be taken at any time if the petitions are imposing enough.

The amendment to the Government Liquor Act at the last session of the Legislature, grants privileges to returned soldiers' clubs in Victoria for the sale of beer by the glass. The promoters of this movement for another plebiscite feel that such privileges should not be restricted to veterans' organizations, but that citizens and tourists should be able to buy beer by the glass in

WELSH CHOIR HAS OVATION

IMPERIAL WELSH SINGERS RECEIVED BY ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE LAST NIGHT

R. Festyn Davies Introduces Picturesquely Garbed Soloists—Choir Sings Twice Today

The fiery, spirited, impetuous racial qualities which tradition associates with the very name of Wales gave a singular glamour and romance to the numbers sung last evening by the famous Welsh Imperial Singers in the first of the three concerts which they are giving at the Shrine Auditorium.

Composed of twelve hand-picked voices, every one of which belongs to the solo class, thanks to the artistic interest of the director, Mr. R. Festyn Davies, the choir is one of the rarest vocal aggregations ever heard in the city. Their numbers moved the audience to great heights of enthusiasm, and even the most exacting critic will admit that it was, despite the undoubted picturesqueness of the Georgian dress with its scarlet coats, black cravats and frills. For they sang superbly. Behind their mastery of technique in ensemble singing, persistently apparent in this particular choir, there was the Welsh singers' instinct for song, an instinct which makes even the most commonplace music inspiring. Martial lyrics, some of their own beautiful lyrical poetry, they sang with particular appeal. In the former group was, of course, "Men of Harlech," a traditional opening number in every Welsh choir's programme. This was magnificent and must surely have evoked a response in the heart of the most expatriated of their nationals. It made one wish that there might have been a little more of the real Cymry music, for when they slipped into Bullard's "Sword of Ferra," the peculiar accent of flaming conviction was somewhat lacking, magnificent as the rhythms were in the fine strains of the bassoon. The Gaelic sentiment was a fine vehicle, again, their "Farewell to the Highlands" having the real sentiment of feeling. Among their other splendid numbers were "By Babylon's Wave," where every voice was drawn on to the full extent of its resources in producing the noble and sonorous line, and the "Boys of the Old Brigade," magnificent in its crispness of tempo and sense of tramping numbers. This and "Little Tommy" might be classified as modern chanson de geste, the latter a delicate little example of how a conductor's baton may be employed as a fishing-rod. The Welsh "Y Gwyl Fach" (Quickie dear!) is another instance of onomatopoeia in song. The choir had an ovation after each of its presentations.

Mr. Festyn Davies, the conductor, gave a little character of his own to the concert by acting as announcer as well as leader, and the more than fugitive remnants of the Welsh accent were eagerly listened for by the audience. He introduced no less than three soloists rejoicing in the name of Williams, one, Harry, a tenor, and Howell and R. J. Williams being baritones and basses respectively. They were all very enjoyable. The soloists who attracted most interest, however, were two young men still in their teens, Elwyn Edwards, a seventeen-year-old tenor who bids fair to be one of the world's famous voices, and Norman Evans, the pianist, a young man of eighteen, who not only played the accompaniments with an artistry which compelled admiration every moment of the evening, but also contributed two piano solos which were greatly enjoyed. Elwyn Edwards' voice is already under fine control and has a vibrant robust quality which promises well for his place in the rank of interpretative dramatic song.

MORE SPACE IN STREET SOUGHT

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES IN PRINCIPLE NOVEL PLAN FOR WIDENING

Buildings at Corner to Be Rounded in Lower Story That Sidewalks May Be Set Back

The City Council last night, meeting in committee of the whole, heard an exposition by Mr. Fred Butterfield of a plan for greatly increasing the space available for traffic at street intersections. The proposal, in brief, is that the lower story of corner buildings should be rounded sufficiently to allow the sidewalk to pass within the corner of the lot on which the building is erected. The turning radius of the average car, at average speed, being about eighteen feet, they swing out toward the middle of the highway in turn at a corner, and this reduced the available width for traffic to about twenty feet in a street forty-two feet wide between curbs. His plan would leave nearly the whole forty-two feet available.

RYVITA CRISP BREAD

Makes and Keeps You FIT

Plans and sketches made the proposal clear, and general approval was expressed. It was agreed that, while the city could exert no authority in the matter and could not at present undertake to carry out the project by authority, yet the merits of the plan could be placed before the owners of new buildings about to be erected; and the city could give them permission to have the sidewalks set back in the proposed manner if the lower story of the buildings were rounded to allow of this.

Alderman Adam and others expressed the opinion that the floor space thus lost would be more than compensated for by the improved window display gained, and by the advertisement that a building constructed on this plan would receive. A motion was passed, authorizing the Mayor to negotiate with such owners with this object in view, and to bring before the council any draft agreement that might be arrived at.

OTTAWA, March 31.—A declaration respecting the optional clause signed at Geneva on September 20, 1929, was tabled in the House of Commons this afternoon by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King. The Prime Minister also tabled recent correspondence respecting the return of natural resources to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. A motion for the printing of copies in English and French carried.

OTTAWA, March 31.—Coal used on the lines of the Canadian National Railways during the calendar year 1929 totaled 5,103,600 net tons. Of this quantity 2,920,600 tons was Canadian coal. This information was given in the House of Commons today by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways and Canals, in answer to a question by Mr. R. J. Smith (Conservative, Cumberland). The 2,182,000 net tons imported from the United States 1,000,000 net tons were supplied from mines on the Canadian National system at cost of production.

Rob Dooley got a job on the section working for a railroad. The superintendent told him to go along the line looking for washouts. "And don't be long-winded in your reports as you have been in the past; just report the condition of the roadbed as you find it, and don't use a lot of needless words that are not to the point. Write a business note, not a love note." Bob began the inspection tour, and when he reached the river, he reported to the superintendent: "Where the railroad was the river is."—The Literary Digest.

EVER HEAR A CAMEL SNEEZE?

THEY don't sneeze. No matter how cold the nights on the desert or how unprotected they are from the biting desert wind. Why? Because they carry their camelhair coats around with them.

And what's more, you never saw a camel take off his coat in the middle of the day when the hot sun scorched down on his plodding self. Again why? Because camelhair is equally good as an insulator against the sun's hot rays.

The moral is plain. Buy yourself a camelhair coat, styled by Jaeger, and be comfortable in any weather.

There's something unmatched in Chrysler performance

Chrysler today is getting more out of engine horsepower, and doing more with engine horsepower than any other make of motor car is accomplishing.

There are engineering reasons for this. Mainly it is because of the unique design and construction of the new Chrysler Multi-Range four-speed transmission and gear shift, together with high-compression engines using Down-Draft carburetion—a principle that has demonstrated marvelous results in aviation.

Chryslers offer the better riding qualities of new, luxurious bodies—with more elbow-room, more leg-room and more head-room—cradled from road shocks by a new type of equalizing spring suspension and rubber spring shackles, as well as by hydraulic shock absorbers.

In outward design, a new smartness and grace; in interior trim, a consummate elegance in the jewelry-like fittings by Cartier of New York and Paris. All in all, besides having a car endowed with the utmost in performance, the owner of a new Multi-Range Chrysler has a car that inspires a confidence and pride of ownership all its own.

Mr. Goward Submits Suggestions for Improved Service in Esquimalt to District Council

"I move that the letter be received and filed, and that Mr. Goward be asked to start the new service as specified in his letter as soon as possible," stated Councillor Charles H. Mr. Goward's letter was a reply to the members of the council, following a meeting held in his office.

Councillor Smith's motion was promptly seconded by Councillor Albert Heald, who stated that he thought the vice-president's answer was a fair one, and that due consideration should be given to the company.

REEVE'S REMARKS
Reeve James Elrick said that the B.C. Electric had made some move to better the situation which has been under fire in the municipality for a considerable length of time. In the way of fixing the tracks, cleaner street cars and a speedier service.

"I can assure you that the Government will never make Esquimalt Road an arterial highway as long as the tracks remain where they are, and also the condition of the thoroughfare as it is today. If the street car tracks were in the centre of the road, then traffic could operate on both sides of them, and the situation might be different," the reeve stated.

When put to a vote the motion passed unanimously.

THE BUS RESOLUTION
Councillor W. J. Cox's resolution, which was tabled at the last meeting, was then brought up for discussion. The resolution asked to invite the Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Veterans Sightseeing Company, and the B.C. Electric, to tender data regarding the cost of operating buses through the district. It also required information on transfers, fares and schedules.

The resolution was seconded by Councillor A. T. Farley.

In speaking on the resolution, Councillor Cox said something had to be done regarding the transportation problem in the district. "I think that we have had evidence here tonight by a request from the Esquimalt Board of Trade about working in conjunction with them and interviewing Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, member for the district, about making Esquimalt Road an arterial highway," Councillor Cox said.

"I further think this matter has something to do with the transportation problem. The question has come up several times whether the people of the district want bus transportation or not, and therefore I do not see any reason for the council not accepting this resolution," he concluded.

Councillor Heald stated that he was in favor of giving the B.C. Electric a trial on the new plans, and then the people could see for themselves how things work out. When put to a vote, Councillors Cox and Farley were in favor, while Councillors Heald, Smith and Lockley were against it.

MR. GOWARD'S LETTER
Mr. Tripp, our general superintendent, and myself had the pleasure of meeting the reeve and council last Monday, when the whole matter of transportation in the Municipality of Esquimalt was fully discussed.

"At this meeting we pointed out the difficulties under which our company was operating, owing, very largely, to the fact that the transportation department was being operated at a loss. The members of the committee, however, pressed us very hard to endeavor to improve the service and operating conditions.

"The whole matter has now been given most careful consideration, and I am pleased to write as follows:

CONDITION OF CARS
As explained at the meeting, the rolling stock used on the Esquimalt line is identical with the rolling stock in service on all other lines, but, owing to circumstances over which we have no control, the cars which I am sure your committee are fully aware, it is next to impossible at all times to keep the cars clean. We will, however, do our utmost in this direction, and any help in the way of co-operation from your council, in the way of interviewing the authorities, will be gladly welcomed.

TRACKS AND SERVICE

"A very considerable amount of money is now being spent in track and improvements to same in the municipality, and I trust this is meeting with the approval of the council."

"As pointed out at the meeting, it is desperately hard to justify an increase in service anywhere, when the service now being given is not paying proper operating charges.

"The members of the committee will, also, remember the loading charts, which we exhibited at the meeting and which conclusively showed the lack of travel during a great portion of the day, particularly in the early morning and late at night.

"However, we are very anxious to meet the wishes of the council and, therefore, propose to put in a schedule, which will give a twelve-minute service for practically the whole of the day, the schedule being as follows: 6 a.m. to 8 a.m., fifteen-minute headway; 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m., a twelve-minute headway; 11:00 p.m. till midnight a fifteen-minute headway.

"Trusting that the above will meet with the approval of the reeve and council, and assuring them of our wish to co-operate at all times."

THRILLING PLAY SEEN AT ROYAL

Gordon McLeod Players Turn Once Again to Crime in Its Creepiest Form

In the London performances of Grand Guignol nowadays they have a hospital nurse in full uniform, ostentatiously parading the foyer of the theatre, ready to administer first aid to those members of the audience who faint away, overcome by the thrills which they have paid their money to experience. The Gordon McLeod English Players might very well crib the idea for this week's production of "The Whispering Gallery," probably the most out and out "thriller," and, in many ways the best, which they have yet offered Victoria.

Three killed and two wounded is the casualty list when the final curtain drops, but this is not as alarming from the point of view of weakening the cast as might at first seem apparent. The first victim, for instance, never appears as anything but an arm, seen round the neck of an armchair, and the nonfatalities are nothing more than cases of semi-strangulation, which again become fit for active service after a very few seconds of gasping incoherence.

AMUSING DIALOGUE

Percy Robinson and Terence de Marnay have worked a number of interesting and unusual features into the plot, together with plenty of distinctly humorous dialogue, so that the play does not rely entirely upon screams in the dark and the sudden appearance of terrifying hands.

Patrons of the Royal this week should make an effort to be in their places by the rise of the curtain as the first minute of the play is taken up by a very intense and difficult piece of business by Mr. McLeod, who makes the very most of a thoroughly bizarre part. Miss Lilian Christine had some of the wildest lines of the play, and was excellent as the sarcastic wife of a henpecked husband. Miss Anne Farrer did not have a great deal to do, and one could have wished that the authors had written a few more lines for her, particularly in the first act. Miss Peggie Burnard surpassed herself last night. She had a different part and played it with subtlety and unselfishness. Mr. Harcourt Aubrey also made the most of the rather thin part of Tom Arnot.

GILLET-BAILEY
There is no doubt, however, that Mr. Roland Gillett and Mr. Claude Bailey shared last night's honors, the former as the perfect type of "ally as," the latter in a splendid piece of character work as a colored manservant from this side of the Atlantic. Both of them had got right into the skins of their parts, and neither of them missed a single opportunity of getting a laugh.

Mr. Ernest Bodkin was quietly convincing as Sir Hugh Elliot, and Mr. James McGrath, saddled with a rather thankless and unympathetic part, worked hard and made the very most of it.

Mr. George Durham, a local actor who has recently joined the company, made a really fine study of the pathetic figure of the hump-backed butler. As a young man in the prologue, and as an old man during the rest of the play, he was excellent throughout. Mr. C. Ridge, who made his first appearance with the McLeod Players last night, was on the stage for the first time, but played the role of Robert Condeil successfully.

PLEBISCITE ON BEER PROPOSED

A movement to get another plebiscite on the sale of beer by the glass in Victoria, has been started by Captain Bayard Martin, a retired army officer, residing here, stated last night that pamphlets were being printed which would circulate the arguments of the Victoria beer-by-the-glass advocates, and will be distributed within a few days.

These will be followed by petitions to which it is aimed to secure enough figures to call for another vote on the question.

A number of business men and citizens, he said, were discussing the formation of an association, to be known as the Moderation and Equity League, which will carry on a campaign for another vote on the sale of beer by the glass, and the adoption of such a system.

Under the Liquor Act the circulation of the petitions is necessary as a preliminary to a plebiscite, and a sufficient but unspecified number of names must be secured to make it a reasonable assumption that enough people are interested to warrant the expense of a plebiscite being taken. The vote may be taken at any time if the petitions are imposing enough.

The amendment to the Government Liquor Act at the last session of the Legislature, grants privileges to returned soldiers' clubs in Victoria for the sale of beer by the glass. The promoters of this movement for another plebiscite feel that such privileges should not be restricted to veterans' organizations, but that citizens and tourists should be able to buy beer by the glass in

IMPERIAL WELSH SINGERS RECEIVED BY ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE LAST NIGHT

R. Festyn Davies Introduces Picturesquely Garbed Soloists—Choir Sings Twice Today

The fiery, spirited, impetuous racial qualities which tradition associates with the very name of Wales gave a singular glamour and romance to the numbers sung last evening by the famous Welsh Imperial Singers in the first of the three concerts which they are giving at the Shrine Auditorium.

Composed of twelve hand-picked voices, every one of which belongs to the solo class, thanks to the artistic interest of the director, Mr. R. Festyn Davies, the choir is one of the rarest vocal aggregations ever heard in the city. Their numbers moved the audience to great heights of enthusiasm, and even the most exacting critic will admit that it was, despite the undoubted picturesque of the Georgian dress with its scarlet coats, black cravats and frills. For they sang superbly, behind their mastery of technique in ensemble singing, persistently apparent in this particular choir, there was the Welsh singers' instinct for song, an instinct which makes even the most commonplace music inspiring. Martial things, some of their own beautiful lyrical poetry, they sang with particular appeal.

In the former group was, of course, "Men of Harlech," a traditional opening number in every Welsh choir's programme. This was magnificent and must surely have evoked a response in the heart of the most expatriated of their nationals. It made one wish that there might have been a little more of the real Cymry music, for when they slipped into Bullard's "Sword of Ferra" the peculiar accent of flaming conviction was somehow lacking, magnificent as the rhythms were in the fine stanzas for the basses. The Gaelic sentiment was a fine vehicle, again, their "Farewell to the Highlands" having the real sentiment of feeling. Among their other splendid numbers were "By Babylon's Wave," where every voice was drawn on to the full extent of its resources in producing noble and sonorous line, and the "Boys of the Old Brigade," magnificent in its crispness of tempo and sense of tramping numbers.

This and "Little Tommy" might be classified as modern chanson de geste, the latter a delicate little example of how a conductor's baton may be employed as a fishing-rod. The Welsh "Y Gwyl Fach" (Cuckoo dear!) is another instance of onomatopoeia in song. The choir had no less than three soloists rejoicing in the name of Williams, one, Harry, a tenor, and Howell and R. J. Williams being baritone and basses respectively. They were all very enjoyable. The soloists who attracted most interest, however, were two young men still in their teens, Elwyn Edwards, a seventeen-year-old tenor who bids fair to be one of the world's famous voices, and Norman Evans, the pianist, a young man of eighteen, who not only sings, but also plays the piano with every moment of the evening, but also contributed two piano solos which were greatly enjoyed. Elwyn Edwards' voice is already under fine control and has a vibrant, well-placed quality which promises well for his place in the rank of interpretative dramatic song.

MORE SPACE IN STREET SOUGHT

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES IN PRINCIPLE NOVEL PLAN FOR WIDENING

Buildings at Corner to Be Rounded in Lower Story That Sidewalks May Be Set Back

The City Council last night, meeting in committee of the whole, heard an exposition by Mr. Fred Butcherfield, of a plan for greatly increasing the space available for traffic at street intersections. The proposal, in brief, is that the lower story of corner buildings should be rounded sufficiently to allow the sidewalk to pass within the corner of the lot on which the building is erected. The turning radius of the average car, at average speed, being about eighteen feet, they swing out toward the middle of the highway in turning a corner, and this reduced the available width for traffic to about twenty feet in a street forty-two feet wide between curbs. His plan would leave nearly the whole forty-two feet available.

GOOD HEALTH— Good Looks.

This scrumptiously appetizing Ryvita Crispbread is real daily bread. But each delicious morsel is packed with nourishment. There's heaps of energy in Ryvita—strong nerve-power—food for muscle—stuff to make bones. All is quickly digested and easily assimilated. Do you wonder, then, that hundreds of thousands of people in many countries throughout the world, eat Ryvita as their daily bread?

Just to bite into a thickly buttered slice of this delicious crispbread whets the appetite. Eaten as your daily bread you have more energy—you feel better—you look better—you enjoy a higher level of general health.

Ryvita—made from pure, crushed whole-grain rye—supplies essential food elements that you need—acts as a corrective in the diet, and supplies "roughage" to clear away waste. Constipation, indigestion, Obesity and Malnutrition are ills of the past. Make Ryvita your daily bread—the daily bread of every member of your family. Eat a few slices every day. Order a packet from your grocer.

The Ryvita Co., Ltd., London, Eng. Sole Importers for Western Canada, Arthur Neilson, 148-150 Alexander, Vancouver.

Plans and sketches made the proposal clear, and general approval was expressed. It was agreed that, while the city could exert no authority in the matter and could not at present undertake to carry out the project by authority, yet the merits of the plan could be placed before the owners of new buildings about to be erected; and the city could give them permission to have the sidewalks set back in the proposed manner if the lower story of the buildings were rounded to allow of this.

Alderman Adam and others expressed the opinion that the floor space thus lost would be more than compensated for by the improved window display gained, and by the advertisement that a building constructed on this plan would receive. A motion was passed, authorizing the Mayor to negotiate with such owners with this object in view, and to bring before the council any draft agreement that might be arrived at.

OTTAWA, March 31.—A declaration respecting the optional clause signed at Geneva on September 20, 1929, was tabled in the House of Commons this afternoon by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King. The Prime Minister also tabled recent correspondence respecting the return of natural resources to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. A motion for the printing of copies in English and French carried.

Makes and Keeps You FIT

OTTAWA, March 31.—Coal used on the lines of the Canadian National Railways during the calendar year 1929 totaled 5,103,600 net tons. Of this quantity 2,920,600 tons was Canadian coal. This information was given in the House of Commons today by Hon. T. A. Cresser, Minister of Railways and Canals, in answer to a question by Mr. R. J. Smith (Conservative, Cumberland). The 2,183,000 net tons imported from the United States 1,000,000 net tons were supplied from mines on the Canadian National system at cost of production.

Bob Dooley got a job on the section working for a railroad. The superintendent told him to go along the line looking for washouts.

"And don't be long-winded in your reports as you have been in the past; just report the condition of the roadbed as you find it, and don't use a lot of needless words that are not to the point. Write a business note, not a love note."

Bob began the inspection tour, and when he reached the river, he reported to the superintendent: "Where the railroad was the river is."—The Legionary.

EVER HEAR A CAMEL SNEEZE?

THEY don't sneeze. No matter how cold the nights on the desert or how unprotected they are from the biting desert wind. Why? Because they carry their camelhair coats around with them.

And what's more, you never saw a camel take off his coat in the middle of the day when the hot sun scorched down on his plodding self. Again why? Because camelhair is equally good as an insulator against the sun's hot rays.

The moral is plain. Buy yourself a camelhair coat, styled by Jaeger, and be comfortable in any weather.

There's something unmatched in Chrysler performance

Chrysler today is getting more out of engine horsepower, and doing more with engine horsepower than any other make of motor car is accomplishing.

There are engineering reasons for this. Mainly it is because of the unique design and construction of the new Chrysler Multi-Range four-speed transmission and gear shift, together with high-compression engines using Down-Draft carburetion—a principle that has demonstrated marvelous results in aviation.

Chryslers offer the better riding qualities of new, luxurious bodies—with more elbow-room, more leg-room and more head-room—cradled from road shocks by a new type of equalizing spring suspension and rubber spring shackles, as well as by hydraulic shock absorbers.

In outward design, a new smartness and grace; in interior trim, a consummate elegance in the jewelry-like fittings by Cartier of New York and Paris. All in all, besides having a car endowed with the utmost in performance, the owner of a new Multi-Range Chrysler has a car that inspires a confidence and pride of ownership all its own.

Kaye Don May Attempt to Shatter World's Auto Speed Record Today

British Racer Makes Fast Time in Trials Despite Rough Going

Silver Bullet Records 186 M.P.H. at Daytona in Test—Carburetor Trouble Halts Attempt—Car Easily Kept Under Control

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 31.—Motor trouble and rough beach combined today to thwart the attempt of Kaye Don, veteran British race car driver, to shatter the world's automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour over the Ocean Speedway here. Despite advice from officials that the course was not in condition for a record-breaking attempt, Don sent his giant twenty-four-cylinder Silver Bullet racer roaring over the beach six times, but the highest speed he was able to attain was 186 miles an hour.

KAYE DON

After his first three runs, made at a fairly rapid clip, carburetor trouble developed and the remainder of his trials were slow. On completing his trial, Don towed the machine to the garage and set mechanics to work adjusting the difficulties. He said if the repairs were completed by tomorrow and the beach was in good condition, he would renew his attempt then. Low tide tomorrow occurs about 3:15 p.m., but he probably would be able to make his trials an hour or an hour and a half before that time.

Don sent his machine bouncing along the course at 178 miles an hour on his first trial today and then came back at 180, to return a short time later at 186.

Despite the rough beach, he apparently had little difficulty in keeping the giant car under control. At the conclusion of the four-somes, which were played in the forenoon, Uplands scored fifteen points to Macauley's five. The visiting players played much better in the afternoon in the singles, holding the home exponents to a one-point advantage, the score being 101-2 to 91-2.

Sharkey Lacks Fighter's Punch

By AL DEMAREE (Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

Of all the heavyweights that have aspired to Gene Tunney's title, since "Eugene Gene" retired from the ring, Jack Sharkey is the most mystifying to the fight public. Possessing every physical qualification for a great fighter, Jack is one of the greatest disappointments in boxing today. He has the unhappy faculty of being a consistent "in and out." In fact, Sharkey has developed a positive genius in crossing his fingers. It is really an art with him.

Of course, Sharkey has excused this unhappy trait by an excusing wave of the hand and a remark to the effect that he was a "bum" and never pretended to be consistent and that the public demanded too much of him.

However, the next big heavyweight bout will be between Sharkey and Schmeling. There is a public demand for it and any other bout is bound to be a flop. After that bout the winner will be a "natural" against Jack Dempsey and what a fight that will be. Dempsey is only thirty-five. Bob Fitzsimmons and Jess Willard were that old when they won the title. Montreal Canadiens Win Way to Stanley Cup Hockey Finals

Flying Frenchmen Defeat New York Rangers 2-0 in Second Game to Capture Semi-To Meet Boston Tonight in First Game

NEW YORK, March 31.—For the first time since 1925, when they lost to Victoria, B.C., the Canadiens, of Montreal, are finalists in the struggle for the Stanley Cup, emblem of the world's professional hockey championship.

Canadiens gained the honor yesterday evening with a stirring triumph over the Rangers, 2-0, in the second game of their series. Now they meet the Boston Bruins, present holders of the trophy, in a two-out-of-three game final series. Previously the Canadiens had defeated the Rangers, 2-1, in Friday's record-breaking overtime struggle at Montreal.

START FINAL TONIGHT

The final is due to open at Boston tomorrow night. The second game will be played in Montreal on Thursday night and the third, if necessary, in Boston Saturday.

Speed and more speed, keynote of every Canadian team, combined with an airtight defence, brought victory to the "Flying Frenchmen." The Rangers, fighting a gallant battle from the start to finish, found every attack broken up as the big Canadian defence men drove into their formations and the Montreal forwards outskated them so thoroughly that they could go down with the puck for a shot and still check back on the Rangers' returns. And behind this defence was Goale George Hainsworth, doing his task in perfect form and as coolly as if it were a bit of practice.

Two overtime games of record duration last week, apparently had not slowed down the Canadian players at all, while the Rangers, somewhat battered at the outset of the play-offs, seemed off form after Friday's two-hour struggle.

TWO IN FIRST PERIOD

Both of the goals came in the opening period, only a minute apart, and both were due in part to the playing of Nickle Wasmie, who made the "goal" of the first game of the series. After about four minutes of play, Leo Reise, Ranger defence man, was penalized and Wasmie and Bert McCaffery took advantage of the opening to score.

McCaffery put a perfect pass on Wasmie's stick and the wing man had little trouble in shooting the goal. A minute later, Wasmie pushed a pass out of a scrimmage to Pete Lepine, who lifted the puck neatly over Goalee Reise's shoulder.

Rangers—Roach, Johnson, Reise, Boucher, W. Cook and F. Cook.

Canadiens—Hainsworth, S. Mantha, C. Mantha, Burke, Moreau, Larochelle and Joliat.

TOMMY DICK'S "PAT" WINS PUPPY STAKES

Maintaining excellent speed and range throughout, Jack Rith's well-known pointer "Sport," annexed first place in the open all-grouse trials, conducted at Jordan River, Sunday, by the Victoria and District Gun Dog Club.

"Sport" was the lone pointer competitor in a field of class English setters, who upheld the honor of the short-haired canines by capturing the honors. Major Hunt's English setter "Captain" was second, while Dr. Daw's "Rocket Nell" was awarded third place.

Tommy Dick's English setter "Pat" topped the honors in the puppy stakes, with Dr. Daw's "Betty D" and "Mabel D" placing second and third, respectively.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

Floyd C. (Babe) Herman is back in the fold at Clearwater, Fla., and all is well with the Brooklyn Robins. Herman, a hardy holdout all Spring, finally surrendered yesterday, and accepted terms calling for a one-year contract at $15,000. The Babe originally had asked for $25,000.

If Manager Bob Sharkey was beginning to view with alarm the fact that his New York Yankees were doing very little hitting during this Spring at Dallas, Texas, he should be feeling a bit relieved now. In their last two games the Yankees have pounded out twenty-nine hits, a fair share of them for extra bases.

Seagull Carries Golf Ball Away After Being Hit

WILDWOOD, N.J., March 31.—Ted Austin, Wildwood High School golf champion, scored a "birdie" today on a par three hole, but lost it, the deciding one of a match, without his opponent getting a hole in one. Austin and Walter Green approached the final hole on the links with the match even. Green's shot fell twenty feet from the pin. Then Austin drove, the ball landing on the beach, an equal distance from the green. But it struck a parading seagull, and the bird, startled, picked up the ball and started seaward. The gull dropped it when beyond the surf.

SOFTBALL MEETING

The Westholme Softball Association will hold its final general meeting before the season gets underway at the Colonist office, Thursday at 8 p.m. Officials will be installed, constitution ratified and league rules revised. All teams are asked to have a delegate present, as the business to be discussed is important. The season will start on May 5.

JONES SETS FAST PACE IN TOPPING FIELD

Atlanta Wizard Shoots Par Golf in Heading Prominent List at Augusta by Three Strokes

FARRELL IN TIE FOR SECOND PLACE

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 31.—Showing perfect figures for the first two rounds of the $5,000 Southeastern Open golf tournament here, Bobby Jones tonight led the field of nearly 100 golfers with his 144 and showed a four-stroke lead over his rival, Horton Smith. It was the second meeting of the year for Jones and Smith. A gallery of 2,000 followed them through two rounds over the difficult par seventy-two hill course at the country club. Smith bested the Atlanta golfer by a stroke in their battle at Savannah last February.

Johnny Farrell, former National Open champion from Mamaroneck, and Tom Kerrigan, Swanoy, N.Y., professional, who led the first round at the country club, Sunday, at the end of the day, three strokes behind Jones.

Smith was alone in fourth place, with 148, while Joe Turnesa, young Elmsford, N.Y., professional, was two strokes farther away, with 150. Three veteran professionals, Ed. Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.; Whiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, and Tony Manero, of Rensselaer, N.Y., had cards of 152. Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., and Frank Walsh, Chicago, posted 153. Gene Saper, who shot a great par round this morning, took 82 strokes this afternoon and found himself far to the rear, with 154.

Several of the outstanding shatters of the United States, fall victims of the hazards of the course and recorded high scores. These included Denny Shute, of Columbus, Ohio, who had 157; Frank Bell, of Atlanta, 158; Jack Forester, Hackensack, N.J., 155; Al Espinosa, Chicago, 160; Bobby Cruikshank, Purdysville, Pa., 161; and Roland Hancock, Lynchburg, Va., 160. Paul Runyan, of Bloomfield, N.J., who won the North-South Open at Pinehurst last week, had 161 to show for his work.

Basketball Practice

The Colonist basketball team will hold a practice game at the Memorial Hall Thursday night at 8 o'clock, against the Foresters, of the senior "C" section of the City League. All players are asked to turn out.

Madison Square Garden Plans Many Title Bouts

Busy Summer Ahead of Topnotchers in Cauliflower Game—Al Singer to Get Shot at Mandell's Crown at Yankee Stadium July 17.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Prospects for a bull market among the cauliflowerers rose sharply today with every indication of a return to the same old turnstiles will be brisker than ever since then Singer has come back in sparkling fashion with a steady string of knockouts.

The Garden outdoor schedule also calls for a flyweight tussle between Jackie Fields, the 147-pound king from Los Angeles, and Jimmy McLarnin, Celtic cloutier who whipped young Jack Thompson here Friday night. This match will be saved for August.

Somewhere in the early Summer the Garden plans a flyweight tussle between Midget Wolgast, recognized as the 112-pound killer, and Frankie Genaro.

Kid Chocolate will be matched either with that Battalino, the featherweight titleholder, in a 126-pound title scrimmage go or with some one of the other well known crack lightweight. A light-heavyweight or a middleweight championship bout may be reserved for September when Victorio Campolo and Gaby, defenceman, and Mib, will receive the champion's $71-2 per cent.

Singer signed the papers today and agreed to take 12-1-2 per cent of the receipts as his wages. Mandell, who trounced Jimmy McLarnin in his last championship battle here, accepted the match some time ago. He will receive the champion's $71-2 per cent.

Fans Litter Ice With Rubbish as Portland Downs Vancouver 3-1

Crowd Takes Exception to Rulings by Referee Ion and Shower Missiles of All Descriptions at Arbitrator—Spectator Ejected

(Canadian Press)
Vancouver, March 31.—Portland Bucks kept in the running for the Pacific Coast Hockey League title honors by defeating Vancouver Lions, 3-1, in the third of the play-off series here tonight. It was the Bucks' first series victory, the Lions having taken the first two games.

Tonight's game was the fastest, most thrilling and most hectic of the series to date. It saw the Bucks, with their backs to the wall, playing fighting hockey and come out on top with colors flying. The locals also played good hockey, good enough to win any ordinary game, but they were up against a team that was fighting mad. Having lost the first two games by narrow one-goal margins, the Bucks went into the third contest determined to win, and their spirit, plus Andy Aikenhead's marvelous goal tending, carried that determination to a successful conclusion.

The Bucks took a one-goal lead in the initial session, and were never headed. They increased their advantage to two midway through the final period, saw their margin drop again to one when a series of determined Vancouver attacks finally resulted in a goal, but clinched the issue with third period less than two minutes before the final whistle.

CROWD IN UPROAR
It was a great contest. Speed predominated for the full sixty minutes of play. The crowd was in an uproar from start to finish and their excitement reached fever pitches in the second and third periods, when on two distinct occasions they held up the game for five-minute periods by throwing things on the ice. In the second period the fans took exception to a ruling by Referee Ion, who penalized Doug Brennan, husky Vancouver defence man, twice within a few minutes. Again in the third session, Ion drew the wrath of the highly-excited spectators when he penalized Joe Jerwa, Brennan's running mate on the local defence. Paper, pencils, bottle openers, golf balls and a couple of chairs cluttered up the ice on each occasion, and time had to be taken out to clean the surface. The third period delay culminated when one spectator was ejected for tossing a chair and attempting to start a fight with one of the Portland players.

KRUSE TO MEET G. SONNENBERG

Youthful Portland Grappler Selected as Opponent for Champion at Armories Saturday

CHAMP ORIGINATOR OF "FLYING TACKLE"

With successive victories over George McLeod, Andy Brown and Tom Allen to his credit in the eliminations staged by the Tillamook Athletic Club, Bob Kruse, Portland grappler, has gained the right to oppose "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, here on Saturday. Preparations are being made to stage the "big shot" at the Armories, which was the scene of the "Strangler" Lewis-Kruse bout here a few months ago.

Originator of the "flying tackle," and victor over the leading heavyweights in the United States, including Ed "Strangler" Lewis, Sonnenberg is the craftiest of present-day grapplers. His visit here means a big boost to the city from a sports angle, and will, undoubtedly, be witnessed by a large crowd than that which saw the "Strangler" Sonnenberg and Kruse will both enter the ring at about 190 pounds.

Telegraphic information from Seattle last night from F. B. Richardson stated that he had signed Kara Alan Passa, Turkish grappler, for the semi-wind-up with "Rocky" Brooks, local midget.

Tickets for the show will go on sale this afternoon at P. B. Richardson's, 735 West Street, Empire Clear Stand, Douglas Street, and Two Jacks, Government Street.

10,000 Greet New Canadian Ice Champions

MONTREAL, Que., March 31.—A throng of people estimated at 10,000, tendered an ovation to the Montreal Amateur Athletic Club's senior hockey team last night when it returned from Toronto with the Allan Cup, won for the first time in its twenty-two years of existence by a Montreal team. The M.A.A.C. team won the Canadian amateur trophy by defeating Port Arthur in two straight games in Toronto.

Every effort will be made to keep the team intact for the 1932 Olympic games, it has been learned.

CHICAGO HAWKS TO PLAY SERIES WITH COASTERS

CHICAGO, March 31.—Eight members of the Chicago Black Hawk hockey team today were headed for the Pacific Coast to play a series of exhibition contests. Games were listed for Tulsa, Okla., the way out, and at Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco on the coast. The squad included Goalee, Chuck Gardiner, Bostrum and Gaby, defencemen, and Mib, Ripley, Gottlieb, Ingram and Cool, forwards.

RUGBY SEASON TO END HERE SATURDAY

Canadian Scottish To Battle Varsity In Quest of Title

British Columbia Rugby Championship Will Be at Stake at Willows Oval Saturday When Locals Meet U.B.C.

Canadian Scottish rugger, local champions, and Varsity, Vancouver titleholders, will stage the concluding number of the 1929-30 oval ball season at the Royal Athletic Park Saturday at 3:15 o'clock, when they clash in the last act of what has been one of the most successful rugby seasons here in many years.

The match is a sudden-death affair for the British Columbia championship and will decide the holders of the Rounsefell Cup for the next twelve months.

Scottish will field a much stronger fifteen than that which lasted defeat at the hands of Ex-King George here recently in an exhibition game. Clouds that hung over their camp a few weeks ago have been chased by sunshine with the announcement that Reg Wenman will be able to play on Saturday. One of the cleverest ball handlers in the city and captain of the Victoria "reps" in the McKechnie Cup series, Wenman's return to the fold will be as welcome as the flowers in May.

The locals held a good practice at the Willows Oval on Sunday with eighteen players turning out. This speaks for the keenness in the Scottish camp to annex the championship by defeating the blue and gold fifteen from the University of British Columbia. On Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, the Scottish will complete their training at Oak Bay Park, and from then on will rest up until Saturday's important tussle.

Duncan Footballers Down Victoria City
DUNCAN, March 31.—Duncan defeated Victoria City on the football field here yesterday by a score of 4 to 2. Duncan scored early in the game, but Victoria evened the count before half time. The locals outplayed the visitors after the interval and ran through three to Victoria's one. McDonald, Duncan's outside left, was in great form and accounted for three of the locals' goals.

ALEX PANTAGES CAPTURES AGUA CALIENTE CUP

Thoroughbred Sets Fast Pace in Capturing $10,000 Event — Scimitar Finishes Second

ONLY SIX HORSES GO TO BARRIER

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 31.—Going to the front with the rise of the barrier, never to be headed, Alexander Pantages, carrying the colors of the Alcazar Stable, won the inaugural of the $10,000 added Agua Caliente Cup, closing feature of the race meeting at the Agua Caliente Jockey Club course here yesterday.

Alexander Pantages, which finished second to Victorian in the Agua Caliente Handicap a week ago, drew into a lead of several lengths at the end of the mile and held the advantage to the end. He raced the two miles in 3:25, eight seconds under the old track record held by Aurous. Scimitar, the favorite, from the Agua Caliente stable, got the place, and Wirt G. Bowman, racing for A. A. Baron, the show.

The time of 3:25 was the second best ever made in the stake, which was run as the Tia Juana Cup in last season. Little Chief set the record of 3:24 in 1924, when he won the two-mile event for I. B. Humphreys.

The winner paid $6.50 for $2 parimutuel tickets. He was well played second choice in the betting.

A field of six went to the post, Trixie, Golden Swoop and Natsapur finishing behind the leaders in the order named. The latter was practically pulled up to finish last.

French-Canadian Scores Tech. K.O. Over Griffiths

Jack Gagnon Surprises Boxing World by Trimming Sioux City Slugger—Referee Stops Bout Despite Loser's Protest

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—Jack Gagnon, French-Canadian brawler, of Boston, scored a technical knockout over "Tuffy" Griffiths, Sioux City, Ia., in the sixth round of a ten-round main event here tonight. Each weighed 187.5 pounds. It was the second knockout Griffiths has had in a rather spectacular ring career and was a surprise to fight fans, most of whom regarded Gagnon as just another opponent for the mid-western brawler in his quest for Tunney's discarded crown.

In addition to a jolting knock, Gagnon uncovered a crushing right that shook Griffiths whether it landed on head, jaw or body. Griffiths had the better of the first two rounds, Gagnon staggered "Tuffy" in the third with a right to the head and a few seconds later dropped him with a right to the chin. "Tuffy" took the count of six. Gagnon showed him with rights and lefts and "Tuffy" went down again but was up without a count. Griffiths came out fast in the fourth and outboxed Gagnon, landing several telling blows. In the fifth both landed staggering rights to the head.

They clinched in the sixth after landing jarring rights to the body. Griffiths jabbed with two lefts then Gagnon shot three rights to "Tuffy's" head. The last blow sent him to the floor. The referee started counting but before reaching ten stopped and awarded the decision to Gagnon on a technical knockout, despite Griffiths' protest that he wasn't knocked out and wanted to continue.

CYCLING CLUB HOLDS MEETING

First Race of Season Will Be Held Next Sunday Over Island Highway to Cobble Hill

The annual general meeting of the Island Road Cycle Club was held recently at the Y.M.C.A., and plans for the forthcoming season were discussed in full. Inspection of the balance sheet showed that the club was in good financial shape. The retiring officials were returned by acclamation.

The committee proposed the staging of fortnightly races over various distances. The first race of the season will be a five-mile event in order to give all riders an equal chance of winning. The competitor with the most points at the end of the season will be awarded the club trophy, while the second and third place occupants will receive cups.

F. PATRICK DENIES REPORT OF COAST TEAMS GOING EAST

VANCOUVER, March 31.—Frank Patrick, president of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, said today there was "absolutely no foundation whatever" for the report that the Pacific Coast Hockey League would break up next season and that his Vancouver team and Bobbie Rowe's Portland Buckaroos were to be transferred hither thence to some Eastern loop.

"The whole thing is so far fetched as to be beyond all bounds of possibility," Mr. Patrick said when informed of the report.

Just Pack Up the Old Kit Bag

We Pay the Expenses

You'll stop off in London, of course. If you have been there before, you can imagine just how it will feel to mingle once again with the crowd in good old Leicester Square, Piccadilly! You walk up Fleet Street, past the Law Courts, along the Strand to Whitehall, see the Horse Guards, Buckingham Palace, Hyde Park! What memories of days gone by!

You'll want to run down to Brighton, up the Thames to Boulogne's Lock . . . and you'll simply have to see some of those quaint old English villages. Or perhaps you'll prefer a quiet week with the old folks up north. You'll know what to do when you arrive.

In the meantime, just remember that all you have to do is come to Smokers' Headquarters, E. A. Morris, Ltd., and ask for the Free Holiday Certificates. Someone is going on that trip.

As a special attraction, ten numbers will be published in the Friday papers every week. Holders of these numbers will each receive a prize of one silver dollar.

THE FROWSY LIMIT

(Babe Ruth will soon lose his speed and then all he can do is to hit home runs.—Exchange.)

The stands are packed—the score is tied.

A boding hush falls on the mob; A large boy wobbles to the plate.

To carry on his daily job. They know he can't beat out a hit;

They know he won't steal second base.

No faddish waits on nimble toes. Where flying feet will set the pace;

He merely waits to get one right; The old mace whirls with ancient flame.

And somewhere out beyond the park Another homer wins the game.

The brooding crowd gets up to go. Where silence falls until it sounds

As some one says: "The poor old mug—"

"All he can do is hit home runs."

When I have lost my facile touch And when my auburn locks are snow,

When I no longer pipe my tunes As young Pan taught me years ago;

When I slip on some halting odds Or skid a bit on some refrain—

As Homer nodded now and then, Or Milton showed the growing strain—

May those who trail my lyric touch In mart or home or crowded street,

Rise up and say: "The poor old egg—"

"All he can do is write like Keats."

BEST ALL-ROUND FIGHTER

If Jimmy McLarnin isn't the best all-round fighter in the trade today, several of those who ought to know, including Jim Corbett and Billy Gibson, are full of seaweed. Both rate him the class of the game as it stands now from the viewpoint of boxing, punching, head work and all around skill.

"If the supply of set-ups runs out," says an exchange, "Carera will have to go in for shadow boxing."

But the beautiful part about life is that the supply of set-ups never runs out. That is why, possibly, so many of us manage to slip by.

The sum of $150,000 in prize money was put up for professional golfers this last Winter and Spring.

But figuring the number of rounds played and the number of those who played them, this only amounts to a dollar a hole. And no one had a chance to claim a foul on the second or third tee.

A revision:

Full many a dub of purest ray serene

The brooding depths of dismal bunkers take;

Full many a duffer lifts his bobbing bean

In time to see a new ball hit the lake.

"A lot of people," remarked Joe Humphreys the other night, "still say that Gene Tunney never was so much. Well, he could box, he could hit and jolt with either hand, he could take it and he was smart. How much do they want from one man?"

CLOSER RACES, MAYBE

As far as anyone can figure from baseball's training campaign up to date there may be closer races in the American and National Leagues than there were a year ago, but no team yet in either league has shown enough improvement to be considered a serious rival when you come to ranking the Athletics and the Cubs.

They are still the class, and unless a number of their best players drop an arm or a leg they should be the class when the official count stops in September. There is a good chance that the gap between first and second place in each circuit will be thinner and this will help.

When it comes to a matter of attendance there is another detail that could help a lot. This concerns the brand of Spring weather that will descend upon the various ball parks.

Cold, wet weather drove away thousands in April and early May through 1928 and 1929.

And it is in April and early May that all have a chance to draw good crowds before the melancholy crusher has been placed upon the hope that springs for a month or two and then dives into the nearest ditch.

The majority of ball clubs in both leagues seems to have been strengthened. But no bolstering process should carry any of them up to the level of the two clubs who won last year, cantering down the stretch.

A saga of pugilism: As they began to jab and block, No foul was claimed on some low sock.

And thousands fainted from the shock.

TODAY'S GOLF WORKOUT

The point has often been discussed as to why Bobby Jones kept his feet so much closer together than most good golfers. Even on the point of his feet, he was a man.

Power in a golfer's shots comes from several sources. The natural strength of the wrists, forearms and general physique help, of course, but without perfect timing the muscular power of the player avails him nothing. The backswing and pivot must get the player into proper position at the top of the swing so that the force can be applied from then on through the ball. The ball must be met on the down stroke with firm grip and follow through. This, of course, requires a perfect body pivot. Right hip, shoulder and wrist—each must do its share in applying the force necessary to distance.

Where does the power that goes into the shots come from, and what is the ratio between those sources?

The backswing and pivot must get the player into proper position at the top of the swing so that the force can be applied from then on through the ball. The ball must be met on the down stroke with firm grip and follow through. This, of course, requires a perfect body pivot. Right hip, shoulder and wrist—each must do its share in applying the force necessary to distance.

Where does the power that goes into the shots come from, and what is the ratio between those sources?

Answered by ABE G. ESPINOSA

Power in a golfer's shots comes from several sources. The natural strength of the wrists, forearms and general physique help, of course, but without perfect timing the muscular power of the player avails him nothing. GREENSHIRTS TO BATTLE DOCKERS

Old Rivals Will Clash Saturday in Feature Game of Cup Series—Thistles to Play Five C's

VICTORIA CITY TO OPPOSE THE JOKERS

Victoria West and Saanich Thistles, joint occupants of first berth in the Combination Cup soccer race, may be divided after this week's fixtures, in which all six senior clubs will be in action. In the feature game of the three Combination Cup fixtures, Victoria West will battle Esquimalt at Beacon Hill, Saanich Thistles are billed to clash with the Five C's at Victoria West Park, while Victoria City will oppose the Jokers at Central Park.

All games will start at 2:45 o'clock. The greenshirts, who last week passed out of the Jackson Cup series at the hands of the Jokers, defeated the dockers, 4-3, two weeks previously in a first round fixture of that series. On Saturday Esquimalt will be out to mete out defeat to the Wests in an effort to gain revenge. Saanich Thistles will be favored to turn the tables on the churchmen, while the Jokers are figured to upset the City eleven.

Colwood Women To Start Play for Cup April 14

The competition for the Spring Cup, presented to the women members of the Colwood Golf and Country Club, by Dr. Ludden and Miss Fitzgibbon, will start with the qualifying round on Monday, April 14. Play will be over eighteen holes with full handicap allowance and the lowest sixteen will qualify for the cup fight. The rest of the field will be divided into flights of eight and match play on handicap will start the following week. Entries will close on Friday, April 11, at 4 p.m., and a record field is expected.

TOWNSEND TO MEET SANTIAGO TONIGHT

Sell-Out House Will Watch Vancouver Boy Battle Cuban Fighter in South

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—Rumors that Billy Townsend, Vancouver lightweight ace, was having much trouble in making the required 135-pound mark set for his return ten-round battle with Armando Santiago, Cuban battler, here tomorrow, were refuted today by his manager, Jack Allen.

To assure those interested Townsend climbed on the scales before newspapermen and weighted slightly more than 135, which means that he is practically there.

Their dramatic, almost double knockout, battle of a few weeks back, has heated the coming return match to a fever pitch and a complete sellout is already assured, with tardy fans offering two and three times the price to secure pasteboards, which are not available even from scalpers.

A battle with Al Gordon, hard socking Philadelphia lightweight, is on the cards for the winner.

Joe Townsend, younger fighting member of the Townsend family, is scheduled to meet Rita De Punnsay, Filipino lightweight, in a six-round on the same card.

ARROW

now brings you the first line of shirts GUARANTEED TO FIT TILL WORN OUT

Another boon to men . . . another contribution to fine shirt-making.

Arrow has solved the shrinkage problem . . . the one great obstacle to perfect fit ever since the first shirt was made.

The Sanforized Process

Arrow has discovered, perfected and patented a wholly new mechanical process of "pre-shrinking" fine fabric. So perfect is this process that Arrow Shirts will henceforth be

Guaranteed for Permanency of Fit throughout the life of the shirt

This Sanforized Process shrinks the fabric the full amount that it would otherwise shrink in washing. Non-processed shirts continue to shrink in washing.

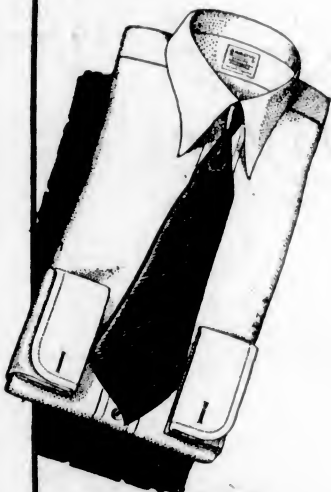

And furthermore, the process shrinks the fabric without using water, so that the original lustre of the fabric is fully retained.

ARROW SHIRTS

Follow the Arrow and you follow the style in COLLARS - SHIRTS - HANDKERCHIEFS - SUMMER UNDERWEAR - PAJAMAS

They can't help noticing the shirt you wear

On Sale Next Week

Next week leading retailers will offer you the first line of Arrow Sanforized shrunk shirts . . . in a smart new range of attractive fabrics for Spring.

As rapidly as possible this new process will be applied to other Arrow Shirts. And remember . . . this process is exclusive to Arrow.

The New VAN-ARA Collar

A new patented collar—attached or detached to Arrow Shirts. The interlining of multi-ply webbing fabric, woven on a curve has a natural fold line. This new construction prevents the collar from breaking down or wilting. As smart at the end of the day as before breakfast.

Ached 'All Night

WOMEN, Oct. From her home on Sunset Street comes word of the wonderful results Norviline achieved in Mrs. Lavery's case. She suffered from shooting pains in the side, arms and back. These muscular pains caused intense distress. Ordinary measures failed. Then Norviline was applied. It penetrated quickly. Its pain-relieving influence quickly brought ease and comfort. All pain disappeared—recovery was complete. This all goes to prove what a powerful liniment Norviline is.

Large Attendance of Members and Visitors to Greet Grand Patriarch Dowling

NANAIMO, March 31.—Saturday evening the I.O.O.F. Hall was the scene of much activity, owing to a large influx of Odd Fellows representing Vancouver, New Westminster, Cumberland and Ladysmith, numbering well over 100. The visitors arrived for the express purpose of listening to an inspiring address on the cardinal principles of the Encampment Branch of the Order by Grand Patriarch J. A. Dowling.

of Kamloops. The speaker expounded in simple and fluent language the cardinal principle of tolerance, and dwelt at length on the history and activities of several encampments in his jurisdiction, which he had already visited in his official capacity.

The grand patriarch was accompanied on his trip to Nanaimo Encampment No. 4 by Grand High Priest J. R. Crellin; P.D.G.P. A. R. Lane; Grand Master E. G. Cavallary; P.G.M. J. C. Brown, of Cumberland; P.G.P. Fay Elliott, of Vancouver; P.G.P. W. M. Thorp, and G. Herald P. McEwen, P.G.M. William Walker, Ladysmith.

During the lodge session, Acme Encampment No. 10, of Vancouver, treated the large audience to a dramatic display of the Hidden Rule degree, and its principles of tolerance.

Subsequent to the lodge meeting the crowd retired to the dining hall, where a bounteous repast was partaken of, and the sister Rebekahs thanked. Many excellent speeches were listened to with interest after the repast, which brought one of the most pleasant social evenings to a close.

Cabaret Held
For Solarium

BRENTWOOD, March 31.—A successful cabaret was held on Friday evening, under the auspices of the West Saanich Women's Institute, the proceeds of which will go to the Solarium. About two hundred guests were present. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Spurre and Mr. O'zard, and the Misses Irene and Vera Holmes.

Ozard's orchestra supplied excellent music, a novelty "statue" being introduced during the evening, the winners of which being Mr. and Mrs. J. Roberts. The flowers which decorated the tables and stage were kindly donated by Mr. R. P. Butchart. Mr. W. O. Wallace made an efficient chairman.

Drastic Steps Taken in Effort to Restore Financial Condition of the Country

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters) ADELAIDE, Aus., March 31.—Drastic restrictions of imports to Australia are necessary in order to restore the Commonwealth's economic and financial position, declared a resolution adopted by the Association of Chambers of Commerce of Australia today.

"While regretting the present adverse consequences to Great Britain," the resolution continued, "the hope is expressed that Australia's action will not be interpreted as indicating a lack of Empire spirit, but will be understood as having been taken with the sole object of speedy restoration of Australia's economic and financial position."

The resolution endorsed recent increases in the Australian tariffs instituted by the Labor Government, passed with the object of encouraging branch factories in Australia instead of direct import.

Small Increase In Preferences
Made by India

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters) NEW DELHI, India, March 31.—After Pandit Malaviya and his nationalist party had walked out of the chamber in protest, the legislative assembly of India today adopted the tariff bill which carries a preference of 5 per cent on certain classes of Lancashire cotton goods. The bill increases the general duty from 11 per cent to 20 per cent, but the duty against British cotton goods is increased from 11 to only 15 per cent.

The assembly adopted an amendment previously agreed to by the Government of India which modifies the British preference to some extent. The effect of this was to remove the preference from plain grey cloth, namely unbleached cloth or cloth dyed in piece, which classes of goods compete with goods manufactured in India.

The preference was inserted after representations by Rt. Hon. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, in the British Government. Lancashire cotton manufacturers had been alarmed by the effect of a general tariff increase. But a number of Indian politicians represented the insertion of the preference. Though it was made clear in the exchange between London and New Delhi there was no suggestion of an attempt at dictation to the Government of India.

LEGION DESERTERS CAUGHT

Two Germans and a Dane, stated to be deserters from the French Foreign Legion, were landed as stowaways from a steamer which arrived in the Firth of Forth, Scotland, from South Africa. The men made an exciting escape from the Legion, and at night concealed themselves on board the vessel. They were not discovered until the vessel had been at sea two days. All were dressed in the full uniform of the Legion. In their arrival at Granton they were handed over to the police by the captain of the vessel. The men could not speak English, but it was learned that they suffered great hardships while in the service. They complained of the food they were given and of the rigorous discipline to be observed. One of the Germans had made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the Legion in 1927.

"MYSTERY BOX" OPENED

Plymstock's "mystery box," which has remained locked and undisturbed in the council offices for a long time, has been broken open by order of the council of the English village. It was found to contain, not the gold, cash or plate which it was thought might be there, but a quantity of old surgical appliances and a number of ancient parish documents. The documents dated back to 1694, and one of the most interesting of the books was that containing records of the waywardness, who administered the parochial affairs in the early days of the nineteenth century. Many of the minutes of the volume referred to the provision of a petticoat for the wife of a poor man of the parish, a pair of trousers for a poor boy who was about to take a job, and food for the hungry.

FOURTEEN JERSEY
BULLS PURCHASED

Committed to P. Burns & Co. for Distribution in Various Dairying Districts in Alberta

An important event in Jersey history in British Columbia occurred last week when fourteen bulls of that breed left Chilliwack over the Canadian National Railways consigned to P. Burns & Co., Calgary.

These bulls have been purchased by this well-known firm for distribution among its patrons in the various dairying districts of Alberta in furtherance of its dairy extension policy, which, by supplying bulls of outstanding merit for service on the grade herds, is one of the most constructive efforts made for the stabilization of agriculture on the prairies.

Herd improvement being one of the main ideas of the project, animals accepted have to reach exacting standards. All have to pass the T.B. and blood tests. Then they must have type and conformation and most important of all, must have production behind them. In connection with this last requirement, the dams must possess records of 400 lbs. of butterfat or over, and the dams of the sires 450 lbs. of fat or better.

That fourteen bulls, averaging two years in age and passing all these requirements, were selected without difficulty in the Fraser Valley, speaks well for the Jersey breed in that district, and the car undoubtedly contained the most outstanding shipment of males ever assembled in British Columbia at one time. In fact, the manager of the dairy extension branch of the Burns Company was so well satisfied with the animals that he has promised to come back shortly and take another carload.

From the production standpoint, the shipment was headed by a son of the famous cow, Pretoria Oxford Janet, with her 368-day world's record of 872 lbs. of butterfat made five years ago. This yearling bull, named Janet's Silver King, registered number 50,657, was bred by Mr. R. W. Brown, Lulu Island, and is sired by Colleen's Silver King, whose dam in turn had a record of 542 lbs. of fat in 365 days.

Next comes Sultan's Oxford, No. 48157, from the herd of David Spencer Limited, Haney. This bull was junior champion at five major fairs and British Columbia fairs last year, and his dam gave 492 lbs. of fat at three years of age, while his sire's dam, the famous show cow, Sultan's Gem, made 512 lbs. of fat at two years and has four grand championships to her credit.

Another outstanding bull, and the most mature in the bunch, was Glamorgan Juno's Beau, bred by Mr. J. S. H. Matson, Victoria. He was grand champion at the last Vancouver Winter Fair, and his dam has a record of 803 lbs. of fat. For some time he headed the herd of Mr. H. E. Williams, Chilliwack, and then passed to the ownership of Mr. A. E. Dumville, Sardis. The latter also contributed Waikiki Genesta's Cid, No. 33493, to the shipment. Bred by Waikiki Farms, Spokane, his dam was a consistent winner and had a record of 517 lbs. fat.

Other contributors to the shipment were Messrs. T. E. Law, Thomas Lister, E. H. Barton, John McLeod and H. P. Young, Chilliwack; W. J. Thompson, Popcorn; C. Menzies, Sumas, and W. B. Collier, Langley Prairie.

The Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland has purchased for use as a junior sire a son of Glamorgan Arizona's Babe, owned by D. Spencer Limited, who has just completed a gold medal record of 13,703 lbs. of milk and 724 lbs. of fat in 365 days at five years of age. The young bull is sired by Oxford Sultan, the imported senior sire of the Spencer herd.

Gillette

Once you try the New Gillette Blade and Razor $1.00 you'll throw away your old razor*QUICK FACTS

1. New blade can be used in your old Gillette
2. New processed steel; new blade resists rust
3. Cut-out corners of blade prevent "razor pull"
4. To clean, turn guard at right angles... then re-tighten... rinse... shake dry
5. New shape guard channel gives full shaving clearance
6. New shape guard teeth meet skin smoothly, naturally
7. No projecting posts to dull blade edges
8. Reinforced razor corners prevent damage if dropped
9. Square blade ends safer to handle
10. Shaves water around mouth, nose, ears
11. New blades same price as old
12. New razor, gold-plated, with one new blade, in case, $1.00

THE New Gillette Blade and Razor won't "pull," can't "pull"—even if you abuse it, drop it on the basin, roll it on the floor.

Here's why:—Gillette engineers found that "razor pull" is caused by dropping a razor and denting the corners. In a precision instrument such as the Gillette Razor, a slight nick may throw the blade out of alignment.

To meet this trouble, the entire razor and blade was redesigned at many points. The corners of the razor cap are reinforced with heavy metal lugs.

Even if you should manage to dent this extra thickness of metal, you still won't throw the blade out of alignment. Why? Because all four corners of the new blade are cut out. The blade is under no pressure at the corners when cap and guard clamp together.

Now when you're through shaving, all you do is shift guard at right angles, re-tighten and rinse under hot running water. The blade is specially processed to resist rust. Just shake thoroughly and place on shelf.

The position posts, too—which accidentally nicked more than one good blade edge—are gone. The ends of the blade are squared off for safer handling with wet fingers and for closer shaving around the difficult corners of mouth, nose and ears.

Visit your Gillette dealer tomorrow. We are making every effort to fill the heavy demands for the new razor, but if you cannot get one at once, you can use the new blade in your old Gillette for the time being.

MARKET FIRM

EARLY TRADING

Big Volume of Accumulation Makes

Trading Risk on New York

Exchange

(Branigan, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, March 31.—The enthusiasm of the market at the close

Saturday, together with the fact that current dividend and interest disbursements of about $1,000,000,000 were being reinvested, served to accumulate a volume of over-sunday buying orders, which manifested themselves in the early trading by firmness in the main portions of the list and a decided up trend

in the steel and utility issues.

By midday a firmer tone developed, and the money, which led to the expectation that rate higher than the 4 per cent renewal would be quoted before the day was over,

which fear, however, proved to be groundless. As a result, over the week, the market became slightly irregular, the nervousness being added to the news of the defeat of the

Macdonald Government in England, while only a trifling market, suggested many unsettling possibilities. The market, however, found aggressive buying again in full swing, with prices close to the high registered earlier and the leadership of the metal trading for the time to the copper shares, especially Anaconda. The buying power brought to bear on this group was helped by reports of spirited buying of the metal for foreign account.

A noteworthy feature of the day was the improved demand for the mail order shares. While Sear's Rebuck reacted after publication of its sales, showing a falling off in third four-week period compared with a year ago, the stock recovered sharply, when it was pointed out that the decrease resulted chiefly in the Midwest territory, affected by the recent two-day storm, localized.

JUST LIKE A WOMAN

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Grandie was what is sometimes called a hustler. He always did everything the quickest way, believed in short cuts, and so on. It was this little habit of his that so annoyed his friend Brandie.

One evening they were going up to town together, and Brandie had decided to take a bus and a breath of fresh air. Grandie objected to this. He protested the train was much quicker, and in the end they went by train. Of course, they saved a certain amount of time.

"There you are," said Grandie, "told you so. Ten minutes gained."

"Yes," replied his friend wearily, "But what are we going to do with it?"

MR. J. E. MILLER RETIRING FROM CIVIL SERVICE

Members of Staff Present
Him With Illuminated
Address and Purse
of Gold

TERM OF SERVICE FORTY-SEVEN YEARS

Mr. J. E. Miller, district inspector for the Department of National Revenue here, who is retiring from the Civil Service of Canada after forty-seven years of continuous service, was honored by members of the staff as well as the heads of other Federal departments yesterday afternoon, when they met in his office and presented him with an illuminated address, together with a purse of gold.

Mr. T. Mason, assistant inspector, who made the presentation, referred to the valuable service rendered by Mr. Miller to the department, and voiced the regret of the staff that the time had come when they would have to dispense with his good counsel. Mr. Miller would be missed all over British Columbia and the Yukon, where he is well-known. The address read:

"Mr. J. E. Miller, Inspector of Customs and Excise.

"On the occasion of your retirement to enjoy a well-earned rest, after forty-seven years' service in the Customs and Excise Department, we, the members of the staffs of the ports and outposts, in your inspectorate, beg your acceptance of this purse of gold, not as a measure of our deep feelings of regret at the severance of relations between us, ever pleasant, and always marked by kindness and forbearance on your part, but as some slight expression of our regard.

"As we understand your face will be turned to the South, may we express the hope that the eternal sunshine you will find there, may be emblematic of the brightness of the many years of happiness we wish you in your Southern home.

"On behalf of the staff of the district:

"F. W. Davey, collector, Victoria; George Allen collector, Vancouver; E. H. P. Pollard, excise tax auditor; T. Mason, assistant inspector; G. Norris, assistant inspector.

Acknowledging the receipt of the purse and the address, Mr. Miller stated that, while he was sure he would have the kindly wishes of the staff with him on his retirement, he had had no intimation that he had been singled out for such consideration. The forty-seven years of his service had passed all too quickly and pleasantly. There was no necessity, he stated, for voicing his regret at severing his connection with the department. He was in a position to retire, however, when he could still play, and hoped that others present would be able to do the same thing when they reached the same stage. He thanked the members of the staff for their gifts, and added that his associations with Victoria and British Columbia would be treasured.

HAPPY RELATIONS

Mr. George Allen, collector, Vancouver; Mr. F. Davey, collector, Victoria; Mr. J. G. Brown, representing the Department of Public Works of Canada, and Mr. H. C. Graham, retired collector, Calgary, all referred in the most complimentary manner to Mr. Miller and his happy relations with all the members of the service with whom he came in contact during the years of his inspectorship in the Department of Customs and Excise.

Representatives of all branches of the Federal service in Victoria were in attendance.

Mr. Miller, who is the foremost man in the Dominion civil service in point of years, entered the service in 1883 in Kingston, Ontario. After five years in that city he served a year in Montreal, coming to Vancouver in 1889 to accept the post of collector for the Mainland division of Inland Revenue.

In 1907 he was promoted to the inspectorship of this branch and came to Victoria to take over his duties. Fourteen years later, following the merger of the Departments of Customs and Excise, Mr. Miller took over the inspectorship of both departments under the name of National Revenue.

His district included Vancouver Island, the West Coast of British Columbia, north of Alert Bay, the Queen Charlotte Islands, Northern British Columbia, the Yukon and Alton.

Since his appointment he has made annual visits to all points of his division. Mr. Miller is a thirty-third degree Scottish Rite Mason, and has made yearly trips East to attend the sessions of that craft. He has been keenly interested in a number of sports, being a well-known golfer and an ardent Rugby enthusiast. The Miller Cup, emblematic of the senior city Rugby championship, was donated by him several years ago.

With Mr. Miller, the retiring official of the Customs and Excise Department will make his home at San Diego, Calif., where he hopes to see any and all of his old friends who may be visiting in California.

DIVORCE GRANTED

A decree absolute of divorce from Norma C. Okeil was granted to George A. Okeil by Mr. Justice Gregory in Supreme Court yesterday. Mr. R. C. Lowe appeared for the petitioner.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Sammy Jay Learns the Whole Secret

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

I pray you to this truth attend:
You can no broken promise mend.
—Old Mother Nature.

Sammy Jay was chuckling noiselessly. Quite by accident he had made a discovery. He had seen a tall—a long, slim tall—hanging from the lower part of a big wasp's nest, that was in a bush on the edge of the Green Forest. He had seen that tall withdrawn, so he knew that the owner of that tall was inside the wasp's nest.

"I think I know whose tall that was," said Sammy to himself. "Yes, sir, I think I know whose tall that was. If that wasn't the tall of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, then I don't know the tall of a Wood Mouse when I see one. I wish he would put that tall down again."

Just as if Whitefoot had heard that wish expressed, he lowered that telltale tail of his through his little round doorway once more. There it hung. You see, Whitefoot was careless once more. Sammy Jay chuckled. Then he spread his wings and flew down and alighted close behind that telltale tail. Reaching out quickly,

"Hello, Whitefoot!" cried Sammy Jay. "So this is where you are living."

He seized the tip of it in his bill and pinched it. He pinched hard, too, did Sammy Jay.

Things happened hard and fast. That tall was withdrawn in a hurry and in its place appeared a pretty little head with large black eyes, in which were mingled fright and anger.

"Hello, Whitefoot!" cried Sammy Jay. "So this is where you are living."

"Who says I am living here?" retorted Whitefoot. "Can't a fellow visit a wasp's nest without making it his home?"

"Of course he can," replied Sammy good-naturedly. "But that isn't what you are doing. You've been living in that nest all Winter. Now, own up, Whitefoot, haven't you?"

"It's no business of yours whether I have or haven't," squeaked Whitefoot angrily. You see, he was very much upset. He was angry because his tall had been pinched; he was angry because his secret had been found out, and he was angry because he had been so careless.

"Oh, it isn't any business of mine," replied Sammy. "You don't have to tell me unless you want to. I guess that Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Peter Rabbit will be surprised when I tell them what I've found out."

Whitefoot forgot all his anger. A troubled look crept over his face. "You don't have to tell, do you, Sammy Jay?" said he.

"But this news is too good to keep. Chatterer and Peter have been looking for your home for a long time. They've seen this wasp's nest dozens of times, just as I have, and never guessed that you would be smart enough to make your nest in it. Your nest is in it, isn't it?"

"If I tell you truly, will you promise not to tell any one else?" Whitefoot asked.

Sammy promised. Then Whitefoot told him how he had discovered that nest at the beginning of Winter and how he had built his own home inside it and lived there ever since undisturbed. Sammy Jay admired Whitefoot's smartness and kept his word. So to this day Peter Rabbit and Chatterer the Red Squirrel still wonder where Whitefoot's home was all through the Winter.
